DEFENSE WINS FIRST VICTORY IN BOMB TRIAL

Attorneys Win Separate Hearings for Bradys Through Move.

LEROY ELECTS JURY TO PASS UPON CASE

Mother of Slain Children Hysterical as Death Is Described.

SIX GIVE TESTIMONY DESCRIBING PACKAGE

A tense and crowded courtroom, silent save for the low sobbing of a broken mother, saw LeRoy Brady go on trial for his life at Rockville yesterday. LeRoy's brother, Herman, was indicted with him for the New Year's bomb "gift" at Seat Pleasant, Md., which snuffed out the life of Herman's girl wife, her little sister and baby brother, but defense attorneys secured separate trials, on the theory that evidence given by one brother might damage the other.

This distinct victory for the defense came when LeRoy elected to be tried by a jury, while Herman asked for a court trial, permissible under Maryland law when three judges are on the bench. Immediately after the case opened at 10 o'clock yesterday defense attorneys moved for a severance of the charges, but the motion was overruled after a two-hour conference in the judges' chambers.

Mrs. Hall Hysterical.

The bloody shambles that resulted from the opening of the bomb package in the Hall home on New Year's day was vividly described by J. Wilson Ryon, special assistant to State's Attorney J. Frank Parran, of Prince Georges County. As Mr. Ryon told how 18-year-old Naomi Hall Brady had eagerly opened the supposed gift, thereby mangling herself and the two children, Mrs. Nora Hall became hysterical and had to be removed from the room. The two defendants showed little emotion, but women in the crowded chamber cried silently as the opening argument developed the scene of the two small children, "splashing in blood, with arms and legs asunder."

Mr. Ryon said the State would prove that LeRoy Brady was an expert electrician, capable of constructing an infernal machine of the type figuring in the crime; that he had left his home at a suspiciously early hour two days before the crime; that he was seen tinkering with a queer, self-firing "rat gun" just before the crime, and that parts of the bomb found in the wreckage were similar to material found in the Washington garage where the defendant is employed.

"No Motive" Feature.

J. Hampton Magruder, countering for the defense, stressed the "no motive" feature; attributed LeRoy's early rising to a duck-hunting engagement, and laid the foundation for testimony that he said would prove his client incapable of constructing a delicate bomb of the kind used in the murders. The State claims that the bomb was made and delivered by LeRoy, with Herman's knowledge.

The trial moved swiftly, the jury being selected in less than an hour from 75 available veniremen. Of the 52 examined the State rejected 9, and the defense 18, two under its limit of 20. Nine veniremen expressed opposition to capital punishment, and were excused. After selecting James W. Carlin, a farmer, approved by the defense, the State rejected him before he was sworn. Ten of the 12 jurors selected are farmers.

Witness Sent Out.

The jurors are: William S. Magruder, foreman; William W. Poole, Edward F. Riordan, Benoni D. Allnutt, John A. Howard, Charles E. Lochte, Harry S. Wheeler, Ridgely Chichester, William P. Jones, Hiram W. Harvey, George P. Plumber, Zachariah M. Waters.

The 125 or more State and defense witnesses, with the exception of doctors, experts and character witnesses, were sent out of the chamber while testimony was taken from individuals.

The six witnesses called by the State before court adjourned at 5:10 p. m. merely described the bomb package, incidents leading to its delivery to the Hall home, where Naomi lived with her mother, and events following the explosion.

Mrs. Hall Testifies.

Maintaining her composure with difficulty, Mrs. Hall told how her clothes had been ripped from her back by the force of the bomb, which her small son had given to Naomi with the statement, "Here's some candy, sister."

Mrs. Annie Buckley, a neighbor on whose porch the bomb addressed to

COMPANY H, WESTERN HIGH, DRILLS IN PERFECT ORDER TO WIN COVETED TROPHY

BOYS FOIL ATTEMPT OF TWO TO FLEE JAIL

Schoolmates Hear Sound of Scraping in Bladensburg Cell; Notify Keeper.

PAIR HELD IN STILL RAID

With but a half hour's work between them and freedom, two prisoners in the Bladensburg Jail last night were foiled in an attempted jail break by the alertness of two high school boys. Extra guards were placed to prevent enlargement of the gaping hole in the wall scraped out with a water pipe in the attempt.

Walking along the Baltimore boulevard on their way home from school, Peter Vincent, jr., and a chum whose name was not obtained by police, both of Hyattsville High School, heard the sound of scraping in the Bladensburg Jail.

They ran several blocks away to the home of Constable George Wiseman, the jailer, to ask him if any one was working on the jail. Mr. Wiseman turned in an alarm to the Bladensburg Volunteer Fire Department and hurried to the scene, accompanied by his son, Daniel Wiseman, who also is a member of the fire department.

The two prisoners, John L. Tatum and Joshua Collins, colored, had dug a hole about a foot square and with this start, it was figured that they would have been able to complete a large enough hole in the crumbly cement to get away in another half hour. They had broken the lock from the inside cell door and torn a piece of 1½-inch pipe from the water system to use as a pry bar. Patiently scraping, they dug clear through the wall to the outside air.

Constable Wiseman deputized Volunteer Firemen William Mitchell, Daniel Wiseman, Harry Harvey, Leonard Simpson, Charles Gasch, Sam Bailey and Theodore Anderson as special guards to prevent the escape of the ten prisoners in the jail. The guard was assumed by County Policeman Claude Reese and Constable Ralph Brown after midnight. Sergt. H. J. Machen, of the county police, and Constable Andrew Gasch also were called.

Tatum, of Maryland avenue near Fourth street, and Collins, of Jackson street near North Capitol street, had been arrested earlier in the day by

CARAWAY DEFENDS SILENCE OF CANNON

Senator Asserts Committee Has No Right to Sift Bishop's Actions.

NEED NOT BE WITNESS

Little Rock, Ark., June 3 (A.P.).—Senator T. H. Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, chairman of the Senate lobby committee, tonight issued a statement upholding the contention of Bishop James Cannon, jr., that the committee had no right to inquire into the political activities of the bishop in the 1928 Southern anti-Smith campaign.

Declaring that the Southern Methodist leader had not been subpenaed and that "it is purely a question of his desire in the matter," Senator Caraway went on to say in his statement that the lobby committee "was not concerned at all in Bishop Cannon's political activities, as it was not authorized to inquire into political activities."

"The committee will hear him if he wants to testify, but will not demand or request him to do so unless he desires," the committee chairman, who is here to deliver a commencement address at the University of Arkansas Medical School tonight, said in his statement.

"The committee on lobbying, of which I am chairman, was not primarily interested in the activities of Bishop Cannon, or the Board of Temperance and Morals of the Methodist Church, or the Federation of Churches, nor did it subpena or invite any of these to appear before it and testify," • • • Chairman Caraway said in his statement.

"However," he continued, "statements made by Mr. Tinkham, a member of Congress from Massachusetts, and Maj. Curran, the head of the Association Against Prohibition, were thought by these organizations of church people to demand a reply, so I, as chairman, received letters from Bishop Cannon and from Clarence True Wilson and Bishop McConnell, as well as Dr. McBride, of the Anti-saloon League, requesting an opportunity to be heard. Each of these was accorded that opportunity as soon as the lobby committee could finish with its investigation of the Association Against Prohibition, which had conducted a very active campaign in the nature of both lobbying

Company H, Western, Wins Military Drill

12,000 Acclaim Capt. Church and His Victorious Cadets at Annual High School Competitive Review in Griffith Stadium.

From a solid phalanx of 2,000 blue-uniformed cadets, representing 27 high school companies, Company H, Fourth Regiment, of Western High School, was selected winner of the annual competitive drill yesterday afternoon as rocketing cheers from 12,000 spectators reverberated through Griffith Stadium.

A tenseness pervaded the rigid blue ranks when Col. Jack C. H. Stearns saluted Lieut. Col. Wallace M. Craige, U. S. A., and gave the word that meant success to the company from Western. Col. Stearns relayed the message to Maj. Aaron Goldman, his adjutant, who trod through the rigid ranks to the winning company.

Company H then marched before the reviewing officers, where Commissioner Luther Reichelderfer presented the flag of victory to its officers. Capt. Eldridge M. Church, commanding officer of Company H, received the diamond studded Allison Naylor medal from Dr. Reichelderfer, who, back in 1893, was the first colonel of high school cadets.

Each member of the company was given a red ribbon emblematic of the victory. To the martial airs of the massed high school bands the company resumed its place in the line.

Then in succession Company C, First Regiment of Central and Company A, First Regiment of Central, strode before the reviewing group to receive the purple and white ribbon, emblematic of second and third places, respectively.

Scores of the winners as given the judges, Capt. A. R. Bolling, Lieut. J. C. White and Lieut. T. H. Allen, of Headquarters Company, were: Company H, 96.6; Company C, 94.3; Company A, 92.

Light blue ribbons were presented to the members of the Central High School Band, under command of Capt. George W. Bogikas. Central won the band competition.

Sidney Hoffman, Company C, of Eastern High School, won a gold medal as winner of the distinguished noncommissioned officers' drill.

A touch of achievement was added to the awesome moment in the lives of high school cadets when they saw George Bean, of Company C, Central High School, acting as orderly for the reviewing staff.

George had looked forward to the drills, hopeful that his company would win. So anxious was he that his friends should win that he spent hours training for the big day. A few weeks ago he thought he would brush up for the extended order drill, which is part of the war games.

Near his home at 2915 Connecticut avenue he practiced falling into a prone firing position. He nearly had it perfected when he fell on a protruding stick that almost blinded him. George spent days in the hospital. His head was swathed in bandages and he guessed it meant no drill day for him.

Then an order came from Maj. John G. Donovan, U. S. A., and it read: "Private George Bean will report as staff orderly at the competitive drills on June 2 and 3." George was there, too, his uniform well groomed and with every trace of military snap and precision in his presence.

Roy McIntosh, of Company E, Central, was there, too. But he was on crutches. Roy says, "I got a tough break." He was playing ball on the monument grounds a few weeks ago when he hurt his leg. Roy and George made up a pair that assisted the reviewing staff. "This is all right," said Roy, "but I'd rather be in line with a gun on my shoulder than standing next to all these men with

HOUSE GROUP FLAYS TEACHERS' GAG LAW

District Education Board to Be Summoned for Quiz in Case of Disoipline.

LABOR PROTEST IS FILED

Members of the District Board of Education will be summoned before the education subcommittee of the House District committee if they attempt to punish any teachers who may have appeared before congressional groups in violation of the "gag" rule at their regular meeting this afternoon.

Such was the announcement of Repreesntative Frank Reid, of Illinois, chairman of the subcommittee, as he adjourned a brief hearing of the House group after listening to a vigorous appeal by Edward F. McGrady, of the American Federation of Labor, in behalf of a bill to kill the "gag" rule.

Any further testimony on the Zihlman bill to provide for an elective school board was postponed until next fall after Mr. Reid announced that members of the board had asked to be heard on the proposal. Mrs. W. T. Bannerman, chairman of the joint committee formed to obtain passage of the bill, agreed to the postponement although she said she had more witnesses to be heard in favor of the measure.

The Reid bill to give the vocation schools of the District a rating equal to that of the junior high schools was also laid on the table, while favorable action was taken on bills to pay alleged back salaries to certain colored school directors and to use the building now occupied by Business High School upon completion of the Roosevelt High School in order to relieve congestion in adjacent schools.

A vitriolic attack on the Board of Education was made by Mr. McGrady in his testimony in behalf of the Bowman bill, which is the same measure as that introduced in the Senate May 27 by Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin. The measure, which would in effect nullify the "gag" rule of 1906, is sponsored by the Federation of Labor, which in 1912 waged a similar and successful fight in behalf of all Federal employes.

The measure would prevent the board from adopting any rule "which would seek to deny to any of its employes the right to meet and freely

KILL 1930 SHIP PLAN, ITALY DARES FRANCE

Rome Ready to Suspend Navy Building if Rival Will, Grandi Tells Senate.

REVEALS SECRET PARLEY

Rome, June 3 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi declared today that Italy is ready to suspend naval construction preparations announced for 1930 if France is willing to do the same.

The foreign minister told the senate that the Mussolini naval formula comprises two fundamental principles—"equivalence and reduction."

"With the authorization of this government and in keeping with this formula," he said, "I have made known that the Italian government is ready, during negotiations on questions which were not solved at the London naval conference, to suspend shipbuilding operations for 1930 provided the French government is willing to do the same for its program voted for 1930."

Signor Grandi also revealed what took place in his conversations at Geneva last month with Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, and Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, about which much speculation had arisen. The three had met to discuss the questions of Italian-French parity and of French security in the Mediterranean, which questions had prevented the Latin nations from participating in the full fruits of the London conference.

The foreign minister said he proposed that representatives of the two nations hold a special meeting to discuss their sea power problems, but said France insisted that the questions should be settled through regular diplomatic channels by ambassadors.

Then Signor Grandi turned to the London conference itself, denying the criticism uttered in certain quarters which implied that the Italian "pretensions" to parity with France at the conference had been solely actuated by a desire for prestige.

He said France had conceded parity to Italy at the Washington conference and cited extracts from several speeches delivered at that parley.

He remarked that he had mentioned these extracts to demonstrate that at

CAPPER PLANS BATTLE TODAY ON PAY BOOST

Senator Will Move for Rejection of Simmons Amendments.

ACTION WILL AMOUNT TO CONFIDENCE VOTE

Another Conference on Bill Would Be Blow to Nebraskan.

HAD HIS WAY, DESPITE ENTIRE COMMITTEE

Measure to Aid Firemen and Police May Revert to Former Status.

Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, a one-man steam roller where District affairs are concerned, will face what will amount to a vote of confidence in the House, if a plan outlined yesterday is carried through.

The plan is that of Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, the mild-mannered but resolute chairman of the Senate District committee.

When the much-amended Capper-Zihlman bill to raise the pay of the city's policemen and firemen comes up in the Senate today the Kansas senator is going to move that the amendments tacked on by Mr. Simmons in the House be disagreed to and the bill sent to a Senate and House conference.

Subsequent Action Outlined.

If this is done, Senator Capper is quite sure that the amendments will be thrown out. Then the two houses will be asked to approve the pay bill as it stood before Mr. Simmons went to work on it.

If the House does approve such a bill, then Mr. Simmons can consider himself as having been spanked.

In effect, the House will be asked to side either with one man—Mr. Simmons—or with 21 men, members of the House District committee.

Fight Seen in Senate.

It is doubtful whether this fact will be taken into consideration, but the 21 men have the support of virtually every civic and trade organization in the District of Columbia so far as the pay bill is concerned.

Senator Capper will not put through his plan without a fight. On his own side of the Capitol are two men who think that Mr. Simmons is right—Senators Phipps (Republican), of Colorado, and Jones (Republican), of Washington.

When the bill is called up today, they will ask that the Simmons amendments be accepted and the bill sent to the White House. The Senate then must side either with them or with Senator Capper.

History of Legislation.

To be able to appreciate the snarl in which the pay bill now is caught one must know the history of that measure. Briefly, it is this:

It was sponsored and drafted by civic and trade leaders, who, after a survey, found that local policemen and firemen were not paid nearly as much as those in many other cities.

The bill, carrying an average salary increase of about $400, was introduced in the House by Representative Zihlman (Republican), of Maryland, chairman of the District committee on that side of the Capitol, and in the Senate by Senator Capper.

Interest of Simmons.

Representative Simmons' interest in the bill is based on the fact that he is chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that handles the District appropriation bill.

Three months ago, Mr. Simmons laid down before the taxpayers of Washington what he said was a cold business proposition. The pay raise bill, he said, would add $900,000 a year to the local budget, and might very well result in an increase in taxes. Having pointed this out, he

THE WASHINGTON POST

Business in Washington

By E. J. MURPHY,
President and General Manager of the E. J. Murphy Co.

E. J. MURPHY.

For the past few years there has been a general complaint throughout the country in reference to the slowing down of business. This we have not found true with our own business nor do we believe, generally speaking, that the merchants of our city have found it so.

Washington is particularly favored, from a business point of view, as the sources from which it derives its business is permanent and is not governed by demands from outside of its boundary lines as is true in all industrial centers. Our industrial interests, while they take their place, are not of such a size as to cause any let-down or great boom with business through their activities.

Our business for the first quarter is greater than that of last year, and we have every reason to believe, from a survey recently made, that we will be able to make an average gain throughout the year.

There has been a lot of business lost to Washington in the past. The activities of the committee recently formed in Washington, known as the "Buy in Washington," is going to help to a great extent to overcome this loss, and we are firmly of the opinion that there is no reason for anything but a bright outlook for the business of the year for the city.

The buyers enjoy a position here that is second to none, as there is no place that offers a higher grade of merchandise nor are there better stores in any of our larger cities.

There is one very pleasing thought for the future, and that is that the splendid cooperation the movement for better business is getting from all sources—the support of the Citizens' Association, bankers, building trades, professional walks and the manner in which our newspapers are extending themselves can not help but bring results. I am firmly of the opinion that the complaint of lack of business in Washington is more imaginary than real.

then asked the taxpayers whether knowing this, they still wanted the bill to pass.

The answer came at public hearings on the bill, and it was an emphatic "Yes!" Representatives of all three trade bodies appeared and indorsed the bill.

Comment by Simmons.

Commenting on this, Mr. Simmons said that, naturally, these men would want it, because the more money the policemen and firemen earned the more they could spend with stores.

The indorsement of another witness, however, was not so easy to explain away. This witness was Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, made up of thousands of taxpayers who have no connection with the commercial houses.

The Senate was the first to pass the pay bill. Before it came up there, Senator Phipps had introduced a series of amendments to the bill.

Effect of Amendments.

These amendments scaled down raises provided for officials in the Police and Fire Departments, delayed the raises for many of the privates, increased the amount each employe contributes to the retirement fund, and struck out the language to base annuities of retired policemen and firemen on the new salary schedules.

Senator Phipps was absent the day the bill came up in the Senate, but whether this was responsible for the action that was taken is problematical. Only one important amendment among those that Senator Phipps had presented was adopted, that scaling down raises for chiefs of the two departments and their immediate assistants.

When the bill reached the other side of the Capitol, the House District committee immediately approved the bill as passed by the House.

Simmons Enters Picture.

At this point, however, Representative Simmons entered the picture and announced that unless the remainder of the Phipps amendments were adopted there would be no bill. If it were necessary, he said, he would filibuster against it.

In the end, he had his way. All the Phipps amendments were adopted, although one of them, that concerning the raises for privates, was slightly liberalized.

Members of the House District committee were furious. Why, they asked, should 21 men be dictated to by one? Nevertheless, they agreed to his amendments, fearing that if they didn't the bill would be lost altogether.

New Conference Group.

Neither Senator Phipps nor Mr. Simmons would sit in at the Senate and House conference if the bill should go to conference. Conferees would be drawn from the Senate and House District committees, which handled the bill.

Senator Phipps is not a member of the Senate District committee, and Mr. Simmons is not a member of the House District committee.

This being so, there is no doubt that these amendments will be thrown out if the bill goes to conference. After that, as has been said, the House will have to choose between Mr. Simmons and the 21 members of the District committee, and the Senate will have to choose between Senator Phipps and a heavy majority of the Senate District committee.

TARIFF VOTE WAITS AS SENATE ARGUES

G. O. P. Leaders Blocked in Effort to Reach Ballot on Second Bill.

HARRISON, DILL WRANGLE

(Associated Press.)

Blocked in an effort to obtain an agreement to vote on the second tariff bill conference report today, Senate Republican leaders yesterday put squarely up to the opposition the burden of carrying on the debate.

Only one speaker was prepared to proceed and the Senate was forced to quit after four hours of speech-making and wrangling over when the showdown should come.

After Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, had denounced the work of conferees in compromising on rates, Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant Republican leader, proposed that a vote be taken on the second report at 4 p. m. today.

Dill Demands Speedy Action.

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, again joined in the demand for speedy action, saying every senator had made up his mind how he was going to vote; But Senator Simmons (Democrat), North Carolina, objected to the vote agreement, asserting several senators wished to speak on the first report embracing most of the rates, but that this report was not yet before the Senate.

Both Mr. Simmons and Senator Norris (Republican Independent), Nebraska, contended time could be saved if both reports were discussed at once.

Republican leaders expressed hope last night that some arrangement would be worked out to obtain a vote this week, at least on the report now pending. This covers only six important provisions, including the new flexible clause and the lumber levy.

Other Report to Wait.

The other report which the House already has approved, probably will not be voted upon until next week. Meanwhile, a belief persists that points of order against one or two rates may send this report back to conference.

Senator Harrison delivered his speech after a statement by Senator Shortridge (Republican), California, that the conference agreement needed "no defense, was sound and should be adopted," and after Senator Borah (Republican Independent), Idaho, criticized Senate Republican conferees for what he termed their "voluntary surrender" on the debenture proposition.

Senator Harrison asserted there was a "race between Senate and House conferees to see which could recede first on lower rates," and contended it would be a "tragic day for the Republican party and the gentleman in the White House" if the bill became a law.

"I've often wondered what would happen," he said, "if the bill did pass and the President vetoed it."

Forecast by Harrison.

"If this happened," he continued, "the Republicans would scamper from it like rats. The chairman of the finance committee (Senator Smoot, Utah) would stand alone like the boy on the burning deck in championing a vote to override the President."

Mr. Harrison predicted the tariff would be a burning issue "in every hamlet of the land" in the coming elections.

Senator Glenn (Republican), Illinois, interrupted to ask if the coalition did not begin to disintegrate when the Mississippian supported the Republican move to retain American valuations as the basis for ad valorem duties on dyes.

"No," Mr. Harrison replied, "the coalition broke when Grundy, the arch lobbyist of this generation, came into this chamber, organized the little group on the other side and disrupted our plans."

Harrison and Dill Clash.

Mr. Glenn asked if this argument would not fall flat if Mr. Grundy voted against the bill and Mr. Harrison said if the Pennsylvanian did that he hoped the Illinois member would follow suit.

Mr. Harrison and Mr. Dill clashed at one point after the Washington Democrat, in urging a quick vote, had said, "Senators don't want to talk, they want to vote."

"There are some who ought not to talk on it," Mr. Harrison shot back.

A little later Mr. Dill wanted to know if this meant himself, but Mr. Harrison assured him he did not.

"If the senator feels we ought to vote that's all right, but there are some of us who want to discuss it," Mr. Harrison said.

DEFENSE WINS FIRST TILT AS BRADY BOMB TRIAL OPENS

Naomi had been left, brought the courtroom to its toes by telling how her children had shaken it, and accidentally knocked it to the floor several times during the two days that it remained in her home.

She said that she did not know the Halls until 16-year-old Leslie Hall came to her home to play with her small son. The youth recognized the name on the package as that of his sister, and volunteered to deliver it.

Watched Through Window.

Nine-year-old Stuart Carneal took the stand to tell how he had accompanied Leslie Hall to his home, and watched through the kitchen window as Naomi opened the package, surrounded by her mother and family. "All I saw then was a big flash. I ran home."

Throughout cross-examination of the witnesses defense counsel sought to develop the fact that the scene of the explosion was visited by hundreds of people, any one of whom might have dropped the parts which the State says were similar to material found in LeRoy's possession.

Chief Judge Hammond Urner, assisted by Judges John S. Newman and Robert S. Peter, postponed their decision on a marriage license application which the State sought to introduce in support of the theory that Herman had not married Naomi until she was about to become a mother.

Trials May Last Three Weeks.

The prosecution's attempt to prove a motive, as intimated by this move, centers in the claim that Herman married Naomi under pressure, and connived with LeRoy to murder her. Naomi's 9-year-old sister, Dorothy, and her 18-month-old brother Sammy, who were fatally injured in the explosion, are admittedly accidental victims.

Other witnesses who gave routine testimony yesterday were Olivia Jourdant, friend and neighbor of Naomi's, and Summerville D. Hall, clerk of court for Prince Georges County.

Court will reconvene at 9:30 this morning, with every prospect that night sessions will be instituted for the examination of the hundreds of State and defense witnesses. It is expected that the two trials will consume all of three weeks.

Culpeper, Va., June 3.—Confederate Memorial Day and the birthday of Jefferson Davis were observed here today with fitting ceremonies sponsored by the local chapter of the U. D. C.

The first phase of the exercises was a short play written by Miss Kate Perry, in which Mrs. Berkeley G. Calfee had the leading role. After the play Capt. M. H. Calfee, a veteran of the war between the States and the Spanish American War, presented to J. Herbert Vaughan the cross of service given by the U. D. C. to World War veterans whose ancestors served under the Confederate flag.

Later a short service was held at the Mound in Fairview Cemetery, where a number of unknown Confederate dead are buried. The Rev. J. M Burton, who served as one of Lee's engineers, offered an impressive prayer and Miss Nancy Green, in a recitation, extolled the Confederate soldiers. Only ten of the veterans witnessed the ceremonies today. Last year there were nearly twenty.

Woman, Fearing Spell, Shoots Baltimore Man

Baltimore, June 3 (A.P.).—Convinced that Samuel A. Sullivan, 60, a street construction worker, had "cast a spell" on her, Mrs. Agatha Staas, 58, sought him out today on the street and shot him twice. His wounds were believed superficial.

Mrs. Staas told a story, police said, that recalled the hex superstitions of Pennsylvania. Neighbors said Mrs. Staas had declared she believed Sullivan had put her "under a spell" by driving a nail through her photograph. The two had been acquainted more than 20 years.

In the Third District returns were slower coming in and a tabulation of nine precincts out of 285 gave Sidney J. Catts 14; J. Harvey Bayliss, 19; Tom A. Yon, incumbent, 282.

Republicans did not contest for congressional nomination.

GRAF NEARS AZORES ON RETURN JOURNEY

TAIL WINDS AID SPEED

Friedrichshafen, June 4 (Wednesday) (A.P.).—The Zeppelin works at 1 o'clock this morning, mid-European time (7 p. m., Tuesday, Eastern standard time), received a message from the Graf Zeppelin bound from Lakehurst to Seville, saying she was at latitude 38 north and longitude 44.3 west. That position placed her about 900 miles west of the Island of Fayal, Azores.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—The New York American publishes a copyrighted dispatch from Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins, aboard the Graf Zeppelin now en route to Seville from Lakehurst, N. J. The dispatch says:

The Graf Zeppelin tonight bore down upon the Azores, over which Dr. Eckener expects to pass early tomorrow morning. If all goes as planned we shall be moored at Seville tomorrow evening.

Racing at between 70 and 76 miles per hour since we turned out into the Atlantic over Long Island last night, at 4 o'clock this afternoon we had covered approximately 1,200 of the 3,300-mile hop to Seville.

The Graf is behaving beautifully. At noon we skimmed 1,800 feet above the Atlantic, beneath a ceiling of fleecy clouds and aided by a bumpy wind that helped us maintain our speed.

Five hours earlier, at 7 a. m., we had picked up a fresh northwest breeze, which, judging from the weather reports received from the steamship Milwaukee, will still be shoving us along tonight. At that time the sea was a trifle choppy, waves rearing their white-capped heads beneath us.

At 6 a. m. we were approximately 500 miles due east of New York. At that time Dr. Eckener ordered the course changed slightly southward in order to swing around a horn of depression directly south of Halifax.

(Associated Press.)

By midnight tonight the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin should be at Seville, Spain, the eight ocean crossing added to her list of many laurels.

Fifty hours it would take, Dr. Hugo Eckener said before lifting his great sky cruiser up against the stars at 9:12, Eastern standard time, Monday night, and scattered reports from ships and the dirigible itself have indicated that this schedule would be easy to maintain.

During the first few hours of the flight, the most perilous leg of its journey above four continents and twice across the equator, the ship held closely to the route outlined at Lakehurst, N. J., just before the take-off. Northeast from New York for about eight hours, southeast then for four hours to the fortieth parallel, which leads eastward close to the north of the Azores, and so direct to Spain.

The world girdling airship will stop at Seville only for an hour or two, just long enough to debark several of the 22 passengers, and transfer mail. Then it will again seek the skies it knows so well for the last twenty hours to Friedrichshafen, completing its two hemisphere flight above Europe and the Americas.

Wireless reports yesterday indicated that the Graf was making about 90 miles an hour, evidence that Dr. Eckener was getting the tail wind he expected. On leaving Lakehurst his information was that there was calm off the Azores and strong squalls farther north. He planned to lay his course midway, so that he would get enough of the favorable wind to speed him on, but not enough to endanger his craft.

G. O. P. Official Flag Day Speaker.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 3 (Special).—Announcement is made by Fred B. Deen, chairman of the committee in charge, that Charles E. Carrigan, Moundsville lawyer and Republican State chairman, had accepted an invitation to deliver the chief address at the annual flag day exercises of the Clarksburg Lodge of Elks, June 14. A street parade will be a feature of the event.

PRESIDENT ADAMANT ON STUDY OF TREATY

Borah Supports Johnson in Demanding Secret Data From Stimson.

PLEA OF SENATORS FAIL

By ALBERT W. FOX.

President Hoover yesterday turned a deaf ear to renewed suggestions from Senate leaders that the London naval treaty be taken up this fall instead of at a special session to be called immediately after the present session adjourns. Senator Watson, Republican leader, and Senator Moses discussed the Senate's view with the President at the White House and received Mr. Hoover's adamant reply.

Meanwhile, Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, has approved the plan of Senator Hiram Johnson to call upon Secretary Stimson for secret diplomatic documents understood to have been retained by the State Department from the list of documents sent to the committee.

Senator Johnson's letter to Mr. Stimson, requesting the additional secret data met with the committee's approval. It is understood that Mr. Johnson knows precisely which secret documents he desires to examine and will not be satisfied if those particular documents are kept secret from the Senate committee.

Paraphrases Are Supplied.

So far the State Department has taken no steps to produce those documents, but has supplied paraphrased documents concerning other matters. With respect to the diplomatic correspondence pertaining to the London treaty and the Geneva conference of 1927, the foreign relations committee wishes either a complete list or an authoritative statement by Mr. Stimson as to which particular documents are not being transmitted to the committee despite the committee's request.

The President's firm stand for an extra session to be called immediately after the Congress adjourns has nipped in the bud the latest senatorial effort to postpone ratification of the treaty until after the congressional elections. But some concern is expressed by friends of the President over the possible outcome of an attempt to compel the Senate to follow the White House program.

Senator Watson has felt from the first that the task of forcing the Senate to deal with the treaty may prove more difficult than anticipated.

Wilson Attitude Recalled.

It is recalled that the Senate resented Woodrow Wilson's effort to control action by the Senate in connection with the league covenant. Opposition to the covenant gained added impetus when the war President demanded ratification without the crossing of a t or the dotting of an i. It has never been conceded by the Senate that it needs guidance from the Executive with respect to ratification of treaties.

Senators Reed and Robinson, who were members of the American delegation, are understood to favor immediate action on the ground that the treaty's best chance for unqualified ratification will be dependent upon early consideration. Both senators strongly favored this course when the pact was first submitted to the Senate. But at that time it was stated that the legislative program of the Senate, as well as the treaty, could be conveniently disposed of by June 1. This date has been passed without the legislative program having fairly begun and it is doubtful whether the legislative program can now be disposed of until close to the end of June.

The differences which have arisen between Secretary Stimson and the foreign relations committee over the secret diplomatic correspondence forecast a delay in the work of the committee. The next meeting of the committee may be postponed until the end of the week and there will be further postponement unless the desired correspondence is forthcoming.

SCHOOL BOARD GAG RULE HIT IN HOUSE

and fully discuss questions of interest to them or which would seek to deny to any of its employes, individually or collectively, the right to petition Congress in their own behalf."

Immediate action was urged by Mr. McGrady on the bill for fear that the board might penalize certain teachers during the congressional recess for violating the present rule which prevents a teacher from going before a congressional committee in behalf of school legislation unless she is summoned.

"You can't tell what these dictators will do unless this committee favorably reports this bill before Congress adjourns," Mr. McGrady declared.

The labor representative called attention of the subcommittee to the fact that Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, had written to certain teachers demanding an explanation as to why they appeared before congressional committees. These letters were written upon the request of Charles F. Carusi, president of the board. The answers are to be heard at today's meeting.

Witnesses Are Cross-Questioned.

During cross-questioning by Representative Albert R. Hall, of Indiana, of the witness and Mrs. Bannerman and Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, chairman Reid remarked: "We can get any teacher we want before this committee. Just name one, and we'll have her here at once."

While the board may reprimand some of the teachers today if they admit violating the "gag" rule, it is doubtful if any drastic action will be taken. Representative Reid would not say how far the board will be permitted to go without being summoned before the committee. If the members are called, however, it will likely be on Thursday night.

Even the board itself was divided on the propriety of the "gag" rule at the last regular meeting, but the majority upheld it. Henry Gilligan appeared as its chief foe.

Danville Interest Keen In Approaching Election

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., June 3.—Danville one week from today will elect five members of the city council, constituting a majority of the board of nine. A heavy vote is anticipated in view of the high interest in the election, there being two tickets in the field. The lines are drawn chiefly about the necessity of continuing the policies of economy started by the present council and the adoption of the pay-as-you-go plan.

There has been no electioneering, but an intensive campaign to corral votes has been quietly conducted. One ticket, headed by J. W. Bledsoe, is sponsored by the Citizens Protective Association, and other is headed by F. W. Townes, member of the present council, and also containing the names of several other old councilmen.

CAMBRIDGE PUPIL KILLS TUTOR, SELF

Noted English Explorer and Scientist Is Slain in Study at School.

POLICE SERGEANT SHOT

Cambridge, England, June 3 (A.P.). Tragedy today enshrouded historic Cambridge University when Douglas Newton Potts, a first year undergraduate, shot and killed Dr. A. F. R. Wollaston, noted English explorer, scientist, physician and tutor and then fatally wounded himself.

Young Potts also shot and severely wounded Detective Sergt. Willis. Hospital officials say he will recover.

The shooting took place in Dr. Wollaston's room in old King College. Dean Milner White this afternoon said Potts, who was an unusually bright student, suddenly left the college ten days ago. The faculty was much perturbed by his absence and a search was started.

Met at Station.

Yesterday a message was received from the London police saying Potts had been found there and was returning to college. Dr. Wollaston, it was understood, went to the station to meet the student and the two men returned to the tutor's rooms where Detective Sergt. Willis was waiting.

Potts was being interrogated on his unexplained absence when he drew a revolver and shot Dr. Wollaston through the heart after shooting the policeman through the shoulder and leg. He then shot himself in the head.

Decorated in War.

Dr. Wollaston was a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, a member of the Royal College of Surgeons and Physicians and accompanied numerous exploring expeditions. He did much work in Central Africa and in New Guinea and held a number of medals for his achievements. He distinguished himself as medical officer during the war and was decorated for gallantry under fire. Recently he headed an expedition with his wife to some of the remotest sections of Colombia and Venezuela.

Dr. Wollaston accompanied the second Everest expedition in 1921 and the photographs he took enabled explorers to fix the position of tents for later expeditions to the summit. He was finally brought back to Cambridge as a fellow and a tutor of Kings College. He was 55.

Gun Escape Balked As Niemoth Loses

Revolver Found in Cell as Court Orders Him to Baltimore Trial.

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—Belief that Willie Niemoth, gangster and alleged pay roll robber, intended to shoot his way to freedom and thwart atempts to extradite him to Baltimore, was expressed by police tonight with the finding of a revolver in the hoodlum's cell.

The Illinois Supreme Court today had denied a rehearing to Niemoth on a ruling that he must return to Maryland and prosecutors had announced they would ship him East as soon as the papers arirved from Springfield. Then it was remembered that Niemoth's wife had visited him a few minutes before.

A search disclosed the revolver in the pocket of a coat lying on the floor.

RETIRED OFFICER, 71, TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Maj. Gen. Devol Shoots Self Through Heart With Service Pistol.

SUFFERED ILL HEALTH

Redwood City, Calif., June 3 (A.P.). Maj. Gen. Carroll A. Devol, 71, U. S. A. retired, shot and killed himself at his Menlo Park home, near here today. He shot himself through the heart with a .45-caliber Army revolver. Gen. Devol had been ill for several months.

The shooting occurred at noon while Gen. Devol was in bed. His wife down stairs heard the shot, and immediately called a physician. Gen. Devol was dead when the doctor arrived.

The general was born in Ohio April 17, 1859, and was graduated from the Pennsylvania Military College in 1878. During the Spanish-American War he was placed in charge of transport service at Manila, and later took part in suppressing the Philippine Insurrection. In 1908 he was in charge of employment and supplies in the Panama Canal Zone and was stationed there five years. Gen. Devol retired April 1, 1913 but in October 1916 was called back into active service as assistant to the provost general.

In the early months of the World War he was placed in charge of draft registration and later in 1917 was made commander of the thirteenth supply zone with headquarters in San Francisco. On June 6, 1919 he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and then retired again. At one time he was acting chairman and general manager of the American National Red Cross.

Besides the widow, two daughters survive, Mrs. George H. Brett, wife of the former commander of Crissy Field now of Selfridge Field, Mich., and Mrs. Albert Bates, of Long Island, N. Y.

Police Lack Clew To Armed Holdup

Alexandria Officers Seek Man Who Took $980 in Daylight Robbery.

The local police are without a clew to the highwayman who held up A. J. Slaughter, representative of the National Oil Co., South Washington, Va., at noon Monday in the heart of Alexandria and, after compelling Mr. Slaughter to drive him in a roundabout way through the surrounding territory, robbed him of $980 in cash and checks and disappeared in the bushes near Annandale, Fairfax County.

Mr. Slaughter came to Alexandria and reported the robbery to the police about 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, stating that he had been driving aimlessly at the command of the robber since shortly after noon, having been accosted at the intersection of Cameron and Washington streets by the man who jumped into his car and pressed a pistol against his side.

The checks which were lost were made payable to the National Oil Co., and Mr. Slaughter said he was on his way to an Alexandria bank to deposit checks and cash when he was held up.

CANNON DRAWS LINE AT FIGHT ON SMITH

Other Questions Answered Freely; Right to Scan Campaign Denied.

CONTEMPT HINTS MADE

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., slept last night on the problem of whether he should answer the questions of the Senate lobby committee relating to his 1928 political activities or take the consequences.

As to just what the consequences will be remains to be seen. The committee intends to insist that the answer and the stage will be set today to cite him for contempt should he persist in his attitude and should that course be decided upon. In other words, a quorum will be present, which was not the case yesterday.

The bishop, equipped with a crutch, but seldom using it, except to fondle it, appeared quite spry and answered all questions freely concerning his prohibition activities until they related to his 1928 campaign in connection with which the committee has gone into his stock market operations. There is no secret that it is in this connection that fire will develop from the bishop's appearance, if there is any fire at all.

Bishop Questions Right.

He did not definitely refuse to answer questions yesterday, but instead, submitted what he called a proposition to the committee of whether it had a right to go into his personal and political activities.

There was a perfect set-up yesterday for him to make the defense that he did. He charged that the committee's investigation was but a continuation of the attack on him by the "wet and Roman Catholic press," and that it was persecution.

It so happened that the only two committee members present were Senator Blaine, a wet, and Senator Walsh, of Montana, a dry, but a Catholic. The Montana senator looked at him strongly out of the side of his eye as he referred to "the Roman Catholics," and subsequently remarked that it was impossible for him to escape the implication that he was persecuting the politico-clergyman. But Mr. Cannon hastily added that he did not mean his remark to apply to the senator, asserting that he had a high respect for him.

Walsh's Position Embarrassing.

Walsh then made it clear that he had a duty to perform and intended going through with it to the best of his ability. As a matter of fact, Senator Caraway, a dry, of Arkansas, and other dry influences largely from the South were responsible for the committee's calling Cannon. But Caraway has now gone away to make a commencement address in his native State, and Walsh is left in a right embarrassing position.

It was Cannon's contention that the committee has not gone into other funds or campaigns against Smith and that he did not believe the committee's angling him out could be justified under its authorization to investigate lobbying.

Senator Walsh said the committee had taken the attitude that it was not concerned, of course, in purely political activities, but he pointed out that Cannon's activity against Smith was in continuation of a fight he had been long making for prohibition. It was just as much within the committee's province to investigate attempts to influence legislation by those who opposed or supported candidates as were attempts on members after they had been elected.

Bishop to Return Today.

With this statement by Senator Walsh, Bishop Cannon reiterated that he was not definitely refusing to answer and Senator Walsh kept repeating that that was the committee's attitude. The Senate had now convened and the two committee members wanted to answer the roll call.

Finally Bishop Cannon said:

"Well, shall I return tomorrow?"

"Yes, at 10 o'clock," replied Senator Walsh.

The only time the bishop got really ruffled concerned a $300 transaction between him and Dr. E. L. Crawford, secretary of the Southern Methodist Board on Social Services, of which the bishop is chairman. Although a small amount, a considerable controversy has beaten around it in the bishop's own church.

When he was under fire by his own brethren at the general meeting of the church at Dallas, Tex., recently Cannon contended that his activities against Smith were not carried on in the name of the board, but by himself as a citizen.

$300 Repayment "Confusing."

The $300 was given to him, however, by Dr. Crawford at Lake Junaluska, N. C., with which to call his famous anti-Smith meeting together. The bishop claims that Dr. Crawford only loaned him this money and that he subsequently paid it back to him.

Senator Walsh produced an accounting of funds which had been made under the law governing election expenditures, which showed this amount listed as a refund to Bishop Cannon.

Under questioning he explained that it was in payment to him for the distribution of copies of his speech entitled "Prohibition Repeal Unthinkable."

"This is a little confusing," remarked Walsh.

"How so?" demanded the bishop. "It was nothing but a cross entry in the books."

Walsh stated that he could not understand why, if Cannon had borrowed the money from the Methodist board through Dr. Crawford, he had not paid the amount of mopey back to him.

Says Board Owed Money.

Cannon kept explaining that $300 which the board owed him for copies of his speech was simply marked off against the money he owed to the board. Walsh then wanted to know how and where Cannon had incurred any expense for the preparation of the speech. The matter was never satisfactorily explained.

It developed in correspondence in possession of the committee that Charles M. Fay, Democratic senatorial candidate in Missouri and who supported Smith although himself a dry and member of Cannon's board, had sought light on this transaction back in the heat of the campaign. It was Hay who complained at the recent Methodist conference in Dallas that although a member of the Southern Methodist Board, Cannon never consulted him.

and propaganda during the recent session of Congress.

"Later Bishop Cannon wrote me and asked to change the date of his appearance until the conference at Dallas, Tex., should have concluded its session. This request was granted, of course, and the bishop set today, June 3, as the time he wished to appear before the committee. If he wants to testify, he will be given the opportunity to do so. If he should have changed his mind and not want to testify, he would not be requested to do so. It is purely a question of his desire in the matter. The committee will hear him if he wants to testify, but will not demand or request him to do so unless he desires. Dr. McBride testified, as also did Dr. Pickett, of the Methodist Board, both at their own request.

"As I said, the committee did not request, and, of course, did not subpena any of these organizations to testify; it simply acceded to the requests of these parties and then left it to them to come forward and testify or not as it seemed wise to them. It was not concerned at all in Bishop Cannon's political activities, as it was not authorized to inquire into political activities. It dealt solely with propaganda and lobbying." * * *

ITALY DARES FRANCE TO SUSPEND BUILDING

London Italy was hardly asking for anything new.

In referring to his proposal that Italy would cut her 1930 construction if France did likewise, Signor Grandi added that such a program would have a proportionately larger extent for the Italian than for the French navy. He said his country would nevertheless have consented to follow the French government step by step in the suspension of construction.

Keeping Posted

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Because a motorist once supplies the traffic office with his name, address and other information incident to obtaining a permit to drive, his obligation does not end there. The regulations require him to keep that information up to date.

The District traffic code provides that in the event of a change of address, the holder of an operator's permit must notify the director of traffic of the new address "within a reasonable time."

Example: A driver who holds a District operator's permit moves to another street address and fails to notify the authorities, believing that it is sufficient to give his correct place of residence later if it is demanded of him. He has violated the regulations, however, and is liable to a fine.

ASYLUM RULE AIDS CRIMINALS' ESCAPE

Dangerous Insane Men in Michigan Released by Unarmed Guards.

THREE OF 13 RETAKEN

Ionia, Mich., June 3 (A.P.).—Thirteen dangerous inmates of the State Hospital for Criminal Insane made a daring escape from the institution before daylight today. Ten of them were still at liberty tonight.

The ten fugitives were armed with knives and razors. Throughout the day State police, county officers, hospital attendants and volunteers patroled highways, examined thickets and woods, searched buildings and spread warnings to the countryside.

Two of the thirteen were recaptured within a few hours after the break. They were found in different places on a trunk line highway to which they evidently had gone in the hope of picking up rides. The third capture was made near Sheridan in an adjoining county, tonight.

Of those still at large, four were sent to the hospital because they had committed murder; one charged into a courtroom with two pistols and threatened the judge; another ran into a downtown Detroit bank and snatched $1,000, and the others were adjudged insane after committing robberies.

Two of the men captured were Stephens Chordas, Detroit killer, and Charles Kenney, committed from Detroit for robbery.

The escape was effected through a ruse from a third-floor ward in which eighteen men were confined. Two guards, U. S. Davis and Bert Hill, were informed by an inmate that some of the men were trying to saw their way out a window.

Guards Are Unarmed.

The rules of the institution require that an official be present when a ward or cell is opened at night, and the guards summoned Gene Owen, night supervisor. When the three went into the ward, they were attacked and overpowered. The inmates displayed razors and knives which they had fashioned from dining room utensils.

The two guards were locked in a wash room and the thirteen men left the ward, taking Owen with them. The other five made no attempt to flee. Men from other cells which the inmates unlocked also remained behind.

Owen was taken through a tunnel to the main entrance of the institution. The guard at the front gate, Guy Carbaugh was told that Owen would be killed if he did not open the gate. One of the men held a knife to the supervisor's throat.

In opening the gate to the men, Carbaugh followed an established policy of the institution, whose rules forbid the carrying of arms by employes.

The men took Owen outside and left him as they scattered. They had pulled out telephone wires, making it necessary for an employe to come in to Ionia, a mile and a half, before the alarm could be spread and a search started.

From the "Bad Ward."

The fugitives were known as among the most dangerous men in the institution, their quarters being known as a "bad ward." Their freedom caused residents of the county to keep close to home throughout the day. Doors of farmhouses were securely locked tonight.

Dr. Perry C. Robertson, superintendent of the hospital, commended the employes for permitting the men to get away rather than to risk bloodshed. He blamed the escape on lack of facilities to care for dangerous men. "Such men as these should be in separate cells," he said, "but we are forced to keep them in wards."

There are about 700 inmates in the hospital, more than 600 of them being men. Dr. Robertson said that 25 per cent of the inmates have committed murder and that 18 per cent more have attempted murder.

Rains Aid Battle On Ontario Fires

Aviator Surveying Burned Area Loses Life When Plane Crashes.

Port Arthur, Ont., June 3 (A.P.).—Cooling rains today fell over the Lake Head District, checking forest fires, which had assumed menacing proportions. For 48 hours the scourge of the North Woods had swept everything in its path—hamlet, woodsman's hut, valuable timberlands—its approach heralded by a pillar of fire by night and a column of smoke by day.

As in a movie thriller pilot engines had carried refugees waiting in isolated clearings through walls of flame to safety, when other exits were cut off. With the aid of their new recruit, the rain, harassed fire fighters tonight believed they had the situation under control in all except a few isolated spots.

Only one death had been attributed to the flames, and that indirectly. An aviator, surveying fire areas, failed to return and a search revealed his wrecked plane floating in a lake at Allenwater. It was believed he was drowned.

Two Brothers Battle Posse in Woods Until Both Are Wounded.

THIRD OF FAMILY SEIZED

Mancelona, Mich., June 3 (A.P.).—Two brothers, members of a gang of four men who yesterday robbed the Antrim County Savings Bank of $960, were surrounded in a woods near here today and fought a give-and-take gun battle that ended only when both were so seriously wounded they could not continue. Both were captured and taken to hospitals, and $452 of the stolen money was recovered.

They were Fred, 25, and Leonard Elliott, 19, of Kalamazoo. A third brother, Sylvester Elliott, was captured without resistance late last night in a swamp 5 miles north of here. He confessed a part in the hold-up. The fourth member of the gang, who was named by Fred Elliott as James Kelly, former Kalamazoo patrolman, was said by the Elliott brothers to have made his escape from the scene of the ambuscade by train.

The robbery occurred about 9 a. m. Monday, the bandits scooping up available cash and fleeing in an automobile. Herbert Sullivan, of Mancelona, pursued the men in his car and was slightly wounded. A posse organized and, hearing reports that the men were hiding in a farmhouse near Bellaire, engaged in a gun fight with each other which resulted in serious wounds to Dr. J. H. R. Gerver, of Bellaire, Mich. Meanwhile the bandits went deeper into the wooded area.

Sylvester Elliott was arrested after the spotlight of a police car revealed him leaving a woods. He was unarmed and made no resistance.

Late today members of the posse came upon Fred and Leonard Elliott. The two brothers immediately opened fire and the posse returned the fire. A battle lasting more than ten minutes was fought, ending with the wounding of both the men. R. C. Bennett, of Mancelona, was slightly wounded in the hand during the exchange.

The two wounded men were taken to Mancelona for treatment. Leonard, physicians said, will be blind in one eye and possibly in both as the result of shotgun charges which struck him in the head. He also was wounded in the chest. Fred Elliott has leg and chest wounds.

Both men will recover. When captured, Fred carried $235 and Leonard had $217, all in bills taken from the bank. The pair had two sawed-off shotguns and a revolver, and still had ammunition left after they were wounded.

A posse of more than 500 engaged in the search for the men, although only a few members were in the group that came upon them and engaged in the gunplay.

He was known throughout Germany as a philanthropist.

DICKINSON LEADING HAMMILL BY 75,000

Iowa Representative Given 55 Per Cent of Vote in Senate Primary.

RECEIVES FARM BACKING

Des Moines, Iowa, June 3 (A.P.).—Representative L. J. Dickinson had piled up a lead of more than 75,000 votes tonight over Gov. John M. Hammill for the Republican senatorial nomination with returns from yesterday's primary almost complete.

Unofficial counts in 2,198 of the State's 2,434 precincts indicated that Dickinson carried all but 12 of the 99 counties.

The farm vote apparently swung to Dickinson, who campaigned for the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill. Hammill ran better in the cities although Dickinson swept Des Moines.

Dickinson's vote remained at about 55 per cent of the total cast for four candidates. Besides Gov. Hammill, who opposed him for his tariff views, Frank J. Lund and W. O. Payne were in the race. Together they polled about 50,000 votes. Thirty-five per cent of the vote cast is required under the Iowa law for a nomination.

In the November election Dickinson will run against Senator Daniel F. Steck, first Democrat to represent Iowa in the Senate for more than 70 years. Rural precincts also ran up large majorities for Dan Turner, who polled more than twice the vote of Ed Smith for Republican gubernatorial nomination. His lead over Smith passed the 100,000 mark this afternoon when about 325,000 ballots had been counted. Turner will oppose Fred P. Hagemann, Democrat, in November.

Turner, who has been identified with the progressive wing of the Iowa Republican party, had received more than 62 per cent of the ballots counted.

Smith's opposition to an income tax brought him a sizable city vote, but Otto Lange, of Dubuque, third candidate, split some of this with him on a platform assailing chain stores.

All State officers other than Smith, who is secretary of state, were renominated and ten sitting Republican representatives held leads over their opponents.

(Associated Press.)

An answer to the charge that farmers "are in revolt" against the pending tariff bill was seen yesterday by Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, in the victory of Representative Dickinson for the Iowa Republican senatorial nomination. Through the Republican national committee Mr. Wood issued a statement asserting the tariff bill was a "clear-cut" issue in that primary.

"Representative Dickinson voted for the bill in the House and vigorously supported it in his primary campaign," Mr. Wood said. "Gov. Hammill, his outstanding opponent, made a direct issue of the tariff. He attacked Mr. Dickinson for his support of the bill and denounced the measure to the farmers of Iowa in all of the old familiar and misleading terms. Preposterous as has been the flow of misrepresentations regarding the tariff bill from the Raskob-Shouse publicity machine, it can hardly claim that Iowa is not an agricultural State."

He concluded that Iowa had taken the first opportunity to express "in no uncertain terms" its approval of the bill.

In the Senate yesterday Senator Glenn (Republican), Illinois, observed that Mr. Dickinson was a "loyal and vociferous advocate and defender of the tariff bill."

Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, replied that was news to him.

"I understood he was excusing himself all the time for voting for the bill on the ground that he was gagged and had to do it," Mr. Harrison said.

Senator Norris (Republican Independent), Nebraska, said Mr. Dickinson was one of the ardent defenders of the McNary-Haugen bill and the debenture plan.

"The Republicans of Iowa forgave him those few errors," Mr. Glenn replied, "and gave whole-hearted indorsement to his defense of the tariff."

Rum Term Meted To Society Woman

Thirty-Day Sentence for Having Gallon Brings Flood of Tears.

Denver, Colo., June 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Martha F. Carson Hosmer, socially prominent here, was sentenced to 30 days in jail today for possession of a gallon of alcohol. Mrs. Hosmer pleaded guilty. Tears sprang into her eyes when she heard the jail sentence pronounced.

"But can't I pay a fine and go?" she asked Justice of the Peace Albert T. Orahood. He shook his head negatively.

Mrs. Hosmer's husband is an official of a tea company at St. Louis. She appeared in court without an attorney, but after sentence she was permitted to telephone for one, and he announced the sentence would be appealed. Officers testified they received an anonymous tip that a delivery of alcohol was to be made at a hotel and they arrived in time to see a man step from the curb, receive a package from an automobile and hand it to Mrs. Hosmer. Mrs. Hosmer was arrested and the man taken into custody, but released. Police refused to give his name. The alleged bootlegger escaped.

Hibbard is alleged by police to have shot his wife and to have then turned the gun on himself. The woman told Assistant United States Attorney Charles Murray that she and her husband are living together happily and that she did not care to appear against him on assault charges which had been booked by the police.

"Count Von Buelow" Surrenders, Alleging Estranged Mate Had Friends Make Attack to "Frame" Him; Gem Robbery Also Fake, He Tells Police.

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—Declaring that he had nothing to do with the two shots fired last night through the bedroom window of his estranged wife, Enrique Dechow, until recently known as "Count von Buelow," surrendered to police tonight.

Dechow went even further and told police that his wife, Mrs. Lottie Brenner Dechow, was trying to "frame" him.

"I think she got a couple of friends to fire the shots," complained Dechow. "In any event I was at my home playing cards when it happened."

Dechow also asserted his wife had staged the holdup in her home on Sheridan road several weeks ago when she reported she was robbed of $50,000 worth of jewelry. Robbers posing as census takers entered her home on this occasion, gagged and bound members of the household and escaped in sensational style.

Not visibly impressed by Dechow's assertions, the police inquired if he had not been married to a woman in Argentine before wedding the Chicago woman. This he denied. He was then fingerprinted and photographed, and police said his likeness and prints will be sent to Argentina in an effort to check the rumored bigamy.

Dechow admitted he had been deported to Germany once, but asserted he had reentered the United States with a regular quota from that country, and had obtained naturalization papers.

Dechow faces a perjury charge growing out of the discovery that the license on which he was married had been procured under the spurious name of "Von Buelow."

The two bullets which crashed through Mrs. Dechow's bedroom window struck a bed which she had just vacated. Police were investigating the possibility that they might have been intended as a warning from the robbers who recently invaded her home.

DIPLOMAS AWARDED TWO NURSE CLASSES

48 From Georgetown and Providence Hospital Schools Graduated.

ADDRESS BY DR. NEVILS

President W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., of Georgetown University, conferred diplomas upon 48 graduate nurses from the Georgetown and Providence Hospitals' Schools of Nursing at their joint commencement exercises yesterday afternoon in Gaston Hall at the Hilltop.

The twenty young women graduates from Georgetown included three from the School of Dental Hygiene, being the first to graduate from that newly founded branch of the hospital. Providence Hospital graduated a class of 28 nurses.

Referring to the fact that the two hospitals are Roman Catholic institutions, Dr. Nevils said that it was significant geographically because the first hospital established in the world was instituted 700 years ago in Rome by Pope Innocent III. Tracing the growth of Catholic hospitals, Dr. Nevils said that the first hospital founded in this country was a Catholic institution in New Orleans under the French government and the first in Canada, in Montreal, is still in existence.

Nevils Presents Diplomas.

"Now inasmuch as you are graduates of Catholic hospitals," he told the nurses, "you have the responsibility of living up to the principles taught in them."

Dr. George Tully Vaughan, of the Georgetown Medical School, and Dr. J. Lawn Thompson, of Providence Hospital, also addressed the graduates. Dr. Thompson declared there is nothing for the public to fear from a $4,000,000,000 cost for medical care. Pointing out that this stupendous yearly figure represents also the cost of patent medicines, hospital buildings and staffs, as well as doctors' bills, he said that the Nation's annual bills for tobacco, cosmetics and other nonessentials far more than double the cost of keeping well.

The Rev. John L. Gipprich, S. H., regent of the Georgetown Medical School, presented the graduates to Dr. Nevils, who conferred diplomas on the three classes as follows:

KEEN and ALERT at "FOUR"!

the day's grind demands men of unusual Vitality

"Oh! fine"

you want to feel the same way

BUSINESS today requires that the successful man be physically fit and mentally alert.

Men, especially, forget themselves physically. Their work demands practically all their time. They do not exercise enough. They get little or no sunshine. They are robbed of a good appetite . . . and when their red-blood-cells fall below normal their flesh becomes flabby, their nerves unsteady. Their strength must be reinforced.

Soundness of body and peace of mind depend upon the proper number of red-cells in the blood—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. They give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red-cell count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It helps Nature build rich, red-blood-cells. It promotes healthy body building.

You will be pleased to know that S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs. It is easily assimilated. Pleasant to take.

is taken by many people at least once a year to keep their blood in good condition. Makes You Feel Like Yourself Again

In a champion it's Self-Reliance

in a cigarette it's Taste

KEEPING ONE'S HEAD—in the flush of the game or in the flush of victory—that's the measure of true sportsmanship.

KEEPING AROMA AND GOOD TASTE in every Chesterfield without loss or variation—that's the simple ABC of Chesterfield's ever-mounting popularity.

MILD, YES—BUT SOMETHING MORE—Chesterfield offers richness, aroma, satisfying flavor—all the result of fine tobaccos, skilfully blended and cross-blended, and all summed up in three words . . . "TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price. LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

CHICAGO GANG WAR TOLL RISES TO NINE

Kidnaping Victim Escapes; Says He Killed One of His Captors.

TWO LEADERS MISSING

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—As a sequel to the week-end of gang shootings in the Chicago area—comprising nine killed and four wounded, the police tonight were composing a list of those unaccounted for while trying to stop more serious trouble by arresting all hoodlums in the open. To head this roll of missing they had the names of Terry Druggan, errant beer baron, and Leo Mongoven.

Druggan, erstwhile partner of Frankie Lake, who amassed a fortune in the liquor racket, has not been heard from since a burst of machine gun fire broke up a party in a Fox Lake resort early Sunday, killing three men and wounding two other persons, a lawyer's wife and George Druggan, Terry's brother. The police were informed that Terry himself was host for the little party, and believe that he perhaps was wounded and hurried into hiding by friends or kidnaped by the attackers.

Wounds Prove Fatal.

Mongoven, a member of the Moran gang, which was decimated in the St. Valentine's Day massacre, police said, possibly was the victim of a machine gun foray which took place near his home a few days ago. At that time a carload of gunmen ambushed a man, shot him, picked him up and carried him away with them. Sam Hunt, who was captured with a shotgun in a golf bag at the scene of the shooting, forfeited $3,500 bonds today, and Mongoven's absence in court forfeited $10,000 bonds.

The death of Joseph Ferrari, 26, today was the ninth resulting from the week-end outbreak. He and two allies were shot down on North Clark street Saturday night.

Another gang kidnaping was exposed today by Lawrence Miller, suburban contractor and deputy sheriff of Du Page County, who, missing since May 21, telephoned his wife from a town in Missouri, telling her he had been abducted and beaten by a gang of bootleggers who thought he had "sgawked" about a still in a barn he was remodeling.

Kidnap Victim Escapes.

In a round-up of hoodlums, squads seized more than 100 suspects, among them Jack McGurn, reputed gunman for Al Capone, and two other alleged Capone henchmen. They later were released, but 25 others, aliens, were held for possible deportation.

Detectives under Chief Investigator Patrick Roche late today raided a garage on the West Side and found 100 sticks of dynamite in the ashes of a furnace. Two men were captured. The officers were looking for a gangster's crematory, existence of which is suspected because of the recent hoodlum habit of spiriting away the bodies of their victims.

Kidnap Victim Returns.

Sikeston, Mo., June 3 (A.P.).—Telling conflicting stories of thrilling adventures with bandits and gangsters, Lawrence J. Miller, 35, building contractor of Naperville, Ill., appeared in several eastern Missouri towns today after being missing from his home since May 21. He stumbled into Sikeston, suffering from knife wounds, which he said were inflicted by a gangster when he escaped from his captors 50 miles south of here after killing one of them with a jack handle. He left alone for his home after relating his experiences.

At Portageville, Mo., where Miller first appeared to call his family and notify them of his escape, he told City Marshal D. C. Lisle he had been kidnaped by bandits who robbed him of $1,170. He said nothing of killing one of them, but did tell of a narrow escape from his captors. The marshal said Miller reminded him of a "man who had been under the influence of narcotics."

The Pemiscot County sheriff denied Miller's story of the slaying.

Trade Body Men Pledge Casualty Hospital Aid

At a meeting last night attended by George Plitt, president of the Board of Trade, representatives of the trade body's membership committee pledged their individual support to Casualty Hospital in its drive for a $50,000 building and equipment fund.

After the meeting, which was held in the campaign headquarters, Fourteenth and H streets, Mr. Plitt and the other members of the trade organization were assigned a list of names for personal solicitation. They will make progress reports later in the week to Roscoe Fertich, chairman of the campaign executive committee.

NEW DOG AT WHITE HOUSE IS FAVORITE

ly under the impression that a police dog should live up to the title, he attached himself to uniforms blue and brass-buttoned.

"That dog stays with the police officers all the time," reported Harry Walters, master of hounds at the White House. "He won't even be locked up at night, but roams the grounds with the police, going from one post to another. He's lots of company for them in the night-time, changing from post to post, that way. Daytimes, he comes in regularly for his meals, and then returns to some post or other."

Pat's faithful patrolling is rewarded. He is the dog President Hoover calls for oftenest during the early morning medicine ball breakfast when he has a few minutes to devote to his pets.

The very individualistic Hoover dogs make quite a contrast to the perfectly matched, pure white Rob Roy and Prudence Prime that frolicked over the White House lawn during the Coolidge administration.

Huge Patrick, sensitive, shy and shaggy, claims Mrs. Hoover as his closest friend.

Inglehurst Gillette has his name beautifully embroidered on the blanket he wore when he won the blue ribbon in Madison Square Garden. He spends much time in contemplation of past glories.

"The only way I could describe it is that he acts like an old man," said the kennel master. "He likes to be off by himself most of the time, but Marks is too playful. He runs himself nearly to death in this warm weather."

Marks, with a coat that matches his name, is also a dog of breeding.

Just now the White House dogs are rejoicing in a reunion with their mistress, Mrs. Hoover. For some time she has been confined to a wheel chair because of a sprained back.

"They'll leave anybody else for Mrs. Hoover," said the kennel master. "They seem to be able to read the kindness in her. No matter how long she is away, they don't forget her. They all are more than glad to go to her."

JAIL BREAK FOILED BY SCHOOLBOYS

Officers Reese and Brown while tending a still which was raided near Branchville. They had been charged with manufacture and possession of intoxicating liquor. Additional charges of jailbreaking were placed against them and their bonds raised to $10,000 each, which they had been unable to raise late last night.

Policemen Reese and Brown found the still in operation, they reported to Justice of the Peace H. J. Moffat, of Hyattsville. A 750-gallon still, 14,000 gallons of mash, a 350-gallon doubler, 96 gallons and a wash tub of alleged whisky, 45 boxes of empty jars and a 40-horsepower upright boiler were seized.

There are others who think that to commit suicide is a person's right and that it is nobody's business to interfere. CAPITAL SADDENED BY DEATH OF WOLF

Banker Expires in Atlantic City After Suffering From Ill Health.

ACTIVE IN CIVIC CIRCLES

Legal, financial and civic circles of Washington were profoundly saddened yesterday at news of the death in Atlantic City of Alexander Wolf, long active in Washington. Mr. Wolf, who was a member of the board of directors and trust officer of Second National Bank and a director and general counsel of the Bank of Commerce and Savings, had been in failing health for some time.

Born in this city, August 11, 1866, the son of William and Maicha (Kaufman) Wolf, Mr. Wolf was educated in the public schools, Linthicum Institute, Wood's Commercial College and Georgetown University, receiving LL. B. and LL. M. degrees from the latter institution.

Engaging in the practice of law he became a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, that of the Court of Appeals and of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Graduated From Georgetown.

He began his career in the mercantile business in a local department store and was graduated from the law school of Georgetown University in 1892, being admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States in 1898. At the time of his death he was senior member of the law firm of Wolf & Wolf.

Long interested in civic affairs, he was an active member of the Washington Board of Trade, was chairman of its committee to arrange the first draft parade under the administration of President Wilson and a member of the draft board for examination of presidential appeals during the World War.

His interest in philanthropic movements was no less intense. He was a past president of the Jewish Foster Home, an officer of the United Hebrew Charities and Jewish Relief, a member of the board of directors of the Federated Charities of the District of Columbia, the Community Center and was a trustee of many local organizations. Besides his banking connections he was vice president of the Washington Finance Service Corporation, a member of the board of directors and secretary of the executive committee of the Washington Hotel Co. and president of the Interstate Amusement Co.

Was Master Mason.

Mr. Wolf was first president of the Association of Master Masons of the District of Columbia, a past master of Hope Lodge, F. A. A. M., a member of Lafayette Chapter, No. 5, Royal Arch Masons, and Mithras Lodge of Perfection, Scottish Rite.

He was also a past president of Elijah Lodge, I. O. O. B., a member of Washington Hebrew Congregation and B'nai B'rith.

He held membership in the Washington Bar Association, the Order of Elks, the Town and Country Club, now the Woodmont Club, of which he was a past president, and the National Union. He resided at 2653 Woodley road and had offices in the Second National Bank Building.

Mr. Wolf married Miss Miriam Brylawski, January 1, 1904. His widow, three sons, William B., Alexander and John Wolf and one brother, Harry S. Wolf, all of this city, survive. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Vesuvius Hurling Fountains of Lava

Anniversary of Eruption in 1929 Sees Peak's Activity Renewed.

Naples, Italy, June 3 (A.P.).—Mount Vesuvius tonight commemorated its own anniversary of last year's destructive eruption by shooting high fountains of lava into the air frequently.

The eruptions, accompanied by strong explosions, were visible for miles around. Such an eruption is an annual spring occurrence, but Alexander Malladra, director of the Vesuvius Observatory, said tonight that this year's explosions will be less violent than those of 1929. Nevertheless, earthworks were being thrown up tonight to prevent an outflow of lava.

Last year, between June 2 and June 8, Vesuvius poured thousands of tons of lava over the countryside and submerged several villages.

HOLIDAY APPROVED BY DISTRICT CHIEFS

July 5 Closing Is Assured to U. S. Employes Under Joint Resolution.

ZIHLMAN BILL OPPOSED

The District Commissioners yesterday gave their approval to the Senate joint resolution making Saturday, July 5, a legal holiday in the District.

Introduced by Senator Blease, the resolution is intended to make the Fourth of July holiday period extend from Thursday to Monday. The same thing was done in connection with the Memorial Day holiday, all of the Government departments closing on Saturday. Business houses will be closed on Saturday, July 5, and the resolution makes a legal holiday permitting banks and trust companies to close and giving legal sanction to the absence of Government employees with pay.

The Commissioners backed up the Board of Education in reporting adversely on the Zihlman bill directing courses be conducted in the public schools teaching humane treatment of animals and birds. Such instruction now is being given and there is no need for the enactment of the measure, the Commissioners said.

Approval was given to the pending bill restricting the sale, transfer and possessoin of dealy weapons in the District. This measure has been urged for several years by the Police Department and was drafted by District officials and sent to Congress.

A TREATY DILEMMA.

The forthcoming discussion by the Senate of the London naval treaty may be greatly affected by the manner in which Secretary Stimson deals with the foreign relations committee's request for all correspondence relating to the negotiations, and for the correspondence that preceded the Geneva conference of 1927.

This correspondence is said to include confidential communications from and to Prime Minister MacDonald, bearing upon the number of cruisers which the several powers would require. During the London conference it was an open secret that Mr. MacDonald had made it an indispensable condition that the United States should limit itself to eighteen 10,000-ton 8-inch-gun cruisers, on the ground that if this number were exceeded Japan would demand a larger number, and that the British dominions would stand immovably opposed to Japan's demand. The success of the conference apparently depended upon the relinquishment by the United States of its program for 21 cruisers, which the Navy general board reluctantly fixed as the irreducible minimum. Secretary Adams' statement that the United States was compelled to cut down its cruiser quota or give up hope of an agreement seems to confirm the report concerning Mr. MacDonald's representations regarding Japan and the British dominions.

Naturally, the Secretary of State will be disinclined to furnish correspondence between the governments, not only because of possible adverse public criticism of the treaty but because the foreign governments involved would regard his action as a breach of confidence. The papers he has already transmitted to the Senate committee are paraphrases and do not include all the correspondence. Senator Johnson is insistent in demanding all the correspondence, and has even gone so far as to demand that it shall all be made public.

The Secretary of State faces a dilemma. If he should refuse to transmit all the correspondence, even with an agreement that the papers should be withheld from publication, the opponents of the treaty will not fail to lay emphasis upon the fact that the Senate is handicapped in passing judgment upon the treaty. The insinuation that the correspondence embodies vital concessions by the United States Government, made before the conference began, will, of course, be advanced. It will be contended that the administration does not dare to permit this correspondence to see the light of day. In this connection the opponents of the treaty are likely to raise the question whether a special understanding was reached whereby the United States and Great Britain undertake to cooperate under certain conditions.

Prime Minister MacDonald, facing his antagonists in the House of Commons on Monday, referred to this subject as follows:

> There is an underlying assumption that the United States and ourselves will cooperate in certain conditions when the occasion requires. To discuss that at the present moment is nothing but evil. We know perfectly well that every public pronouncement made by responsible American statesmen is contrary to that assumption.

This is not quite as clear as it should be. If the "assumption" is entirely without foundation, it would seem that Mr. MacDonald could have disposed of it by a flat denial. When he intimates that mere discussion of the matter is "nothing but evil," he permits American opponents of the treaty to raise doubts that may imperil its ratification. Senators, whether for or against the treaty, are anxious to postpone consideration of the pact until autumn. But President Hoover remains firm in his decision to call an extra session immediately after adjournment of Congress. The discussion in the House of Commons reveals that the British government prefers to await ratification by the United States before submitting the pact to Parliament. Whether this fact will tend to delay action by the Senate, whether senators will absent themselves and force an adjournment, or whether the treaty will be ratified after brief but sharp debate are questions soon to be answered.

SPANISH WAR PENSIONS.

The overwhelming expression by Congress in favor of liberalizing the pensions to Spanish War veterans doubtless faithfully reflects public opinion, notwithstanding quite general acknowledgment that President Hoover was technically right in opposing pensions to veterans whose disabilities were incurred by their own carelessness and not because of war service.

The public is not disposed to look too narrowly into the right of veterans to receive pensions for disability. The Spanish War veterans have not been treated as liberally as other service men. They are now aging, and are entitled to generous consideration. They were all volunteers. The Government did not debar any of them who were able to go to the front, but availed itself of their services. The suggestion that pensions should be granted only to those who can prove that they are destitute did not appeal to Congress. Both the Senate and House took the broader ground that more liberal treatment should be given to all, without regard to their financial condition. The pension is given, not entirely as charity, but partly as a testimonial of gratitude to the Nation's defenders. Inasmuch as the total sum involved is small, and the cost of sifting out especially deserving cases would be quite heavy, Congress concluded that the most practicable method of dealing with the situation was to include all Spanish War veterans in the liberalized provisions.

THE HUMAN BIRTHPLACE.

There are some things, Roy Chapman Andrews has said, that can not be done. Everybody knows that they are impossible, and therefore no one wastes time on them. But now and then, according to Mr. Andrews' philosophy, there comes along some fool who doesn't know that these particular things are impossible, and he goes ahead and does them.

It is this reasoning, no doubt, that leads Mr. Andrews, one of America's foremost explorers and zoologists, into the Gobi Desert of Mongolia again to seek the birthplace of man. He will lead a scientific party into a region that has not been inhabited for centuries, with the objective of scrutinizing thousands of square miles of waste land for traces of prehistoric humanity. The fact that the Gobi Desert has been above the sea longer than any other section of land known to science makes it a particularly fruitful field in the search for clews as to man's origin. Vast areas of strata which were laid down during the age that man is supposed to have emerged with a semblance of his present form are exposed. The desert has already yielded an invaluable piece of evidence in the fossil of the so-called "Peking woman," and now Mr. Andrews sets out to find, if possible, the ancestor of the "Peking woman."

Little by little information is being assembled on the origin of man. From Los Angeles comes the discovery of tools used by the inhabitants of America 20,000 years ago. Nebraska has yielded evidence of man's existence at a period that may have been millions of years ago. Scientists all over the world are busy reconstructing the past out of the vestiges left from those dim and distant ages. The origin of man is the most baffling subject with which paleontology has to deal, yet one of the most important questions that science may be privileged to solve. If Mr. Andrews can bring forth convincing evidence of man's primary ancestry, he will be hailed as one of the outstanding explorers of all time. As the mystery of early man becomes more intricate, it is encouraging to know that there are men, who, whether foolish or superwise, are willing to devote their energies to this absorbing question.

RADIO SYSTEM FOR POLICE.

Among the items in the 1932 budget estimates of the metropolitan police is one of $18,500 to establish a short-wave radio broadcasting and receiving service. Maj. Pratt wishes to erect a broadcasting station, with towers of 50 to 100 feet in height, and to equip sixteen automobiles with radio receiving sets. The plan would establish instantaneous communication with police authorities in Rockville, Alexandria, Fredericksburg, Fairfax, Annapolis and Laurel.

As a means to discourage, prevent or detect crime this innovation has not been equaled in importance since police authorities here, in December, 1801, adopted the novel plan of placing an oil lamp "on a tree near the turn from the Capitol into Pennsylvania avenue," one "near the M Street Bridge" and similar lights at three additional strategic places about town.

The idea of radio-equipped police cars to patrol the streets and be ready at an instant's notice to speed to the scene of a crime, or to take up the chase, is not new. Already 25 American cities have adopted it, and with notable success. This is true particularly of Detroit, where over two years ago the idea was first carried out in this country. Within one month two of these cruisers had effected 8 arrests, made 114 runs and received 1,462 messages; while in March of this year, and by the same means, 422 arrests were effected, 272 responses to emergency calls were made and 5,301 messages were transmitted. The remarkable feature of this newer method of combating crime is the rapidity with which lawbreakers have been apprehended. Only 90 seconds, on an average, was required.

As the system has amply demonstrated its worth and been everywhere extolled by those concerned with crime prevention and detection, the wish of Maj. Pratt to have it established here should receive the hearty support of the District Commissioners, who now have the 1932 estimates of the metropolitan police under consideration.

The police radio service should be made to apply to accidents, fires, missing persons and the like.

THE NEZ PERCES.

From Spokane comes the information that "more than half a century after United States soldiers pursued him on one of the most brilliant retreats in the history of Indian warfare the Government is considering the erection of a monument to Chief Joseph, of the Nez Perces."

"Home news from afar off" in this same dispatch brings the information that the Senate committee on Indian affairs has reported favorably upon the proposal. It may be that the Senate will approve the action of its committee and that the House will likewise give its consent.

It is fortunate for the proponents of this proposition that the late George L. Shoup, for eleven years a senator from Idaho, and previously an Indian fighter of parts, is no longer on earth and occupying a seat in the Senate, for were he here he would certainly have something to say on that subject. Somewhere in the files of the War Department there are copies of the correspondence between the late Redfield Proctor, Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Harrison, and Senator Shoup referring to the Nez Perces. Some of the remnants of Joseph's band of warriors desired to obtain permission to return to that part of Idaho near Salmon City, the home of Senator Shoup, and they appealed to Secretary Proctor for the privilege of returning "in order that their bones might be mingled with the skeletons of their ancestors." Secretary Proctor called upon Senator Shoup for his views.

Those views were forthcoming, and were as emphatic as they were brief. Senator Shoup said: "My dear Mr. Secretary: Some of the descendants of the white people who were so brutally murdered and mutilated by the followers of Joseph are still living near the scenes of those murders. They have not forgotten the treachery which brought about the massacre of their forbears. By all means send those Indians back to the neighborhood of the homes of the Idahoans. The welcome which will be given them will be so emphatic and so effective that the mixing of bones will be accomplished in short order."

The Indians were not given the permission which they sought.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

From the Wall Street Journal.

Returns of the Department of Commerce show that in 1929 exports of fruit, fresh, dried and canned, had a total value of $136,000,000. In order to avoid a discussion of the question whether the tomato is a vegetable or a fruit, all vegetables, fresh and canned, will be included, making the total $162,000,000. Thus, one group of the "minor" crops, and so much minor as to be hardly noticed, made up 21.5 per cent of the total value of exports of foodstuffs of all kinds aggregating $754,763,000.

A dried prune or a bunch of grapes may not appear of much importance, but when exports of the different fruits and vegetables combined paid for 3.6 per cent of all the merchandise of every description imported in the year, they are worth considering. When it is recalled that the exports are only the surplus that we can not consume ourselves, the wonder is how much of these "minor" products does the country produce and consume.

The answer is that this group of products has an aggregate cash value greater than the cotton crop. Transportation to the market calls for a million cars, many of which cross the continent. About 42 per cent of California's production is hauled over 3,000 miles and another 35 per cent gives a haul of not less than 2,000 miles. Florida also gives the railroads a fairly long haul, 82 per cent of its output moving between 1,000 and 2,000 miles. This helps to pay dividends and sustain the value of railroad securities.

But freight and enlarged purchasing power are not the only contributions made to the country by the fruit and vegetable producing States, led by California and Florida. The great gain is in the consumer's market basket. The people as a whole today enjoy a varied assortment of fresh foods that a few decades ago would have been luxurious even for the wealthy. The favorable climatic conditions of a few of the States, supplemented by the despised railroads, have made this possible.

A generation ago the winter use of fruits and vegetables was confined to those that had been stored, canned or dried. Now, fresh fruits and vegetables can be enjoyed nearly the whole year through. Colorado will furnish a late autumn crop of vegetables and melons, and California, Arizona, Texas and Florida will take up the task in the winter. Thus, with the help of other States producing in the summer a continuous service of fresh foods is supplied.

As railroad freight, tomatoes have increased in ten years from 15,000 to 36,500 carloads, including some from Mexico and Cuba and excluding canning goods; peas for fresh consumption from 691 carloads to 6,000, and lettuce from 7,000 carloads to 51,000. Substantial earnings are shown by these figures, but what is of more importance is the increased health of the people resulting from this great change in their diet.

THE BORROWED CHILD.

Once there was a neighbor who
Had an errand she must do,
So she brought her little one
In to me while she was gone,
Asking me to guard the child
In her absence. And I smiled;
Smiled to think that for the day
I could watch a child at play.

Oh the joy, that for a while
I could share that happy smile!
Hold that wee one to my breast,
And be very fearful lest
Harm should come to her in play
While her mother was away.
Very glad was I, indeed,
Thus to serve a neighbor's need.

Not for long could she remain,
Soon she must go home again,
Soon she'd go away from me,
And once more I'd childless be.
But so lovely and so sweet
Was the patter of her feet
That I wanted her to stay
Longer with me than a day.

Oh you troubled hearts and sad
Who have lost the child you had,
So it was with you who weep
For the joy you couldn't keep.
God just placed a baby fair
In your tender loving care
For a little while, and then Came and took her home again.

The Scared Train Robber Seems a Tough Guy Because His Victims Are Worse Scared.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

YOU read in your newspaper a story of a train wreck that contains this sentence: "While waiting for the ambulances a jewelry salesman named John Doe organized the unhurt passengers and directed the work of removing the dead and injured from the wreckage."

"A born leader!" you say.

Perhaps he is; but you can be a leader and you can be more successful than your competitors if you will learn one simple truth.

A one-eyed man is ruler in a land where nobody else can see.

Assuming that you possess good common sense and are in all ways normal, you can succeed for three reasons.

Because there is little competition.

Because people wish to be led.

And because people use their imagination to magnify the good or ill they see and hear.

Whatever your vocation may be, most of your competitors are content to drift—accepting what Fate sends, watching the clock for quitting time, doing no more than they are paid to do.

A very little effort will lift you out of their class and relieve you of competition.

Leadership may be won as easily.

In every group, organization or community the majority realizes that certain things need doing and each is willing to help when called upon, as the unhurt passengers did at the train wreck, but few have experience in organizing and directing men.

The one who steps out of the crowd and says "Let's go!" is at once accepted as the boss.

Now consider the effect of imagination.

Everybody in the club thinks Bill Jones a bad guy and is careful not to offend him.

Because he beat up somebody?—because he threatens and bullies?—because he looks tough?

No; because on one occasion, when a stranger with too much liquor aboard made everybody feel resentful and ill-at-ease, Bill looked him coldly in the eye and said; "My friend, I advise you to quite down."

Nothing more; but imagination magnified Bill's courage and overnight he became a fire eater.

Most men dread a scene—loathe being conspicuous—fear making an ass of themselves—and fear physical combat simply because they have no experience of it.

To appear calmly unafraid—however great the bluff—is to lift yourself above the crowd.

That is the whole story, and you can verify every word of it.

You needn't be a wonder in order to win, but just one degree removed from a nonentity.

THE ONCE OVER

LINES TO A YOUNG LADY WHO SET A NEW RECORD FOR LOOPING THE LOOP.

Twinkle, twinkle, lady fair,
Making loops up in the air,
Whirling like a wounded bird—
Don't you think it quite absurd?

Flashing 'round and 'round in space,
Yet not going any place;
Turning somersaults galore—
May I ask you, miss, what for?

Up above the world so high,
Like a pinwheel in the sky,
Wrongside up you twist and sway—
Should a lady act that way?

Aiming for a record new
At a stunt few women do,
Going into loops and out—
What's it all, dear miss, about?

If your loops and turns are more
Than a girl has turned before,
If you make a thousand flat—
Tell me, dearie, what of that?

What can aviation learn,
What can engineers discern,
From a girlie no place bound,
Simply turning round and round?

I admit that it's a trick
Very good and pretty slick,
Still it leaves me cold, I fear,
And without the urge to cheer.

What I want to know is this,
If you will excuse it, miss:
Do you, when you're on the ground,
Act in any way unsound?

When you're in an auto do
You try looping in it, too?
Do you, washing dishes, dear,
Wash 'em standing on your ear?

Do you when you make a bed
Make it standing on your head?
Do you shopping 'round the town
Ever do it upside down?

Do you almost always yearn
Just to turn and turn and turn?
When performing your ablutions
Do you count the revolutions?

Twinkle, twinkle, lady fair,
Making loops up in the air,
Though you doubtlessly adore it,
I can see no reason for it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Speed and Driver Efficiency Inseparably Connected—How to Increase Skill of Drivers Is the Great Problem.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The traffic experts will fall short of satisfactory results if, in their study of the problem of street and highway safety, they fail to realize that the key factors are speed and the driving efficiency of the public. If all autoists were expert drivers, present speeds might possibly be increased with safety, or at least without increasing the number of accidents. But the great majority of autoists are not competent in respect to emergency driving, and to increase the speed, as is advocated by many experts, will be to increase the automobile death toll. Indeed, this seems to be proved by the fact that as speeds have been increased during the past two decades the number of traffic deaths has mounted.

Much may be accomplished by widening and straightening streets and highways, standardizing left and right turns, strict enforcement of regulations against faulty brakes and driving gear and by other physical means. This is comparatively easy.

But the question of what speeds are safe under varying conditions should have more serious consideration than it seems to have received in the past. Still more difficult, and certainly worthwhile, will be the study of how to improve the driving skill of the general public.

Under conditions which ordinarily prevail any one can drive an automobile with safety. But the great majority of motorists are mentally or physical or altogether incompetent so far as safe driving in any emergency is concerned at more than 20 miles an hour. Until all become dependable drivers the price we must pay for speed will be death, on the increase from year to year.

Toads Lay Eggs in Lincoln Memorial Pool and Then Can't Get Out. How Do the Little Toads Get Out?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Lincoln Memorial pool is a depository for toad eggs, but the unfortunate part of the matter is that when the toads enter the water to deposit the eggs they are trapped, as there is no means for their getting out. The sides of the pool are vertical and the water is about ten inches from the top of the walls. The other day I was walking around the pool and saw seven toads floating in the water, which is not a natural haunt for toads, so I picked them out and placed them on shore. I did not see any dead toads in the water, but they would die if left there to flounder around indefinitely.

Toads are a great help to the farmer, as they destroy many harmful insects and are themselves harmless. A few people believe that toads are the cause of warts, but this is a mistaken idea. I have handled many and have never had a wart. After the toad eggs remain in the water a certain length of time they turn into small black tadpoles, which grow legs and become toads. These little toads then go out into the world and destroy millions of insects in the course of their life. How they get out of Lincoln Memorial pool is a secret that I have not yet discovered—but they do. A. W. K.

Jack Garner Saves District of Columbia the Trouble of Filling Up the Senate.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Jack Garner crashes the front page with a speech shorter than Calvin Coolidge's history of the United States. Garner caught the politicians and statesmen unawares. He has given the editorial writers something to write about, and the political economists and historians something to discuss.

Garner "threatens" to cut the Lone Star State into five sovereign States. He wants to save the District of Columbia from going to all the trouble of furnishing the Senate with more members. Each one of the five States, he said, would be more than 1,000 times larger than the District of Columbia, and each one would have twice the population of the District. And he also remarked that these five States could furnish ten members to the Senate, whereas the District could furnish only two.

Jack may be only the leader of the minority, but he has big ideas; and the District's no better friend than this quiet, unassuming Texas sheep rancher, who knows how and when to crash the front page.

A WASHINGTONIAN.

Senate Should Take a Tip From Max Schmeling and Shorten Its Punches.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I think the framers of the Constitution thought wisely when they planned an upper house of Congress as a safeguard against hasty legislation. I must allow, however, that the unfriendly critics may not be entirely wrong who say that senators spend too much breath trying to look as wise as they feel. A training-camp statement of the German pugilist, Max Schmeling, "as told to Jack Farrell" in the sport section of The Post, furnishes a tip by which they might profit. He says:

"Right now I am sharpening and shortening my punches. I want to shorten all jabs and hooks, especially body jabs."

History will show that the Senate has been a success in serving the purpose for which it was intended, and, if it ever learns to shorten its punches, it will be no idle boast to call it the greatest legislative body the world has ever seen. FEDERALIST.

INDIA REBELS SCORE KING'S NATAL RITES

Sympathizers of Imprisoned Volunteers Raise Black Flags on Anniversary.

NATIVE SLAIN BY POLICE

Bombay, India, June 3 (A.P.).—King George's sixty-fifth birthday observance was the apparent cause of grave disorders today which caused injuries to 88 persons at the Worli Concentration Camp, which houses volunteers arrested for breaking the salt laws.

Some thousand volunteers are detained behind a barbed wire barrier at the camp, which is in a suburb of Bombay, and this morning sympathizers on the outside demonstrated against the royal anniversary by hoisting black flags over lodging houses and parading near the concentration camp, shouting antiimperialistic slogans.

While they were demonstrating thus, a company of military sappers and miners marched up to repair the barbed wire surrounding the camp, which had been weakened by previous attempts at escape.

Demonstrators Stone Soldiers.

The soldiers were jeered and stoned as they worked. Eventually their operations brought them to a place on the boundary where was gathered a party of women, the wives of mill operatives in the nearby factory area.

The women sat in the paths of the soldiers to impede their work, while the prisoners inside the barrier encouraged them with cheers.

When the demonstrators were forcibly removed, the enraged prisoners dashed for freedom, and a general fracas followed which was not brought under control until police and military reinforcements arrived.

Police Kill Villager.

At Dharasana, where the breaking up of salt raids has become daily routine for the police, two attacks were made today by volunteers, who still are using the old Untadi camp as a base, there followed the inevitable sequel—charges by police armed with sticks, arrests and injuries to the raiders.

An outgrowth of the salt campaign caused the death of an Indian last night in the village of Cholingnallur, 20 miles from Madras. Villagers there had assembled to invite congress leaders to visit the village and break the salt laws. They were ordered to disperse, but the police, who were returning to their quarters after breaking up the meeting, were stoned. Two policemen were injured seriously and an officer gave order to fire, one shot killing a native.

An affray which caused the death of two persons and the wounding of several others Sunday became known only tonight. The incident occurred at Pratapdighi, in the Mindapore district, villagers surrounding a group of policemen who were attempting to prevent them from making contraband salt. When they refused to disperse the police fired.

Brickbats & Bouquets

—By JAMES HAY, JR.—

TO say that there is no big issue in the Bailey-Simmons primary fight for the Democratic nomination to the Senate is the one sure way to make a North Carolinian so all-fired mad that he'll immediately get into the habit of waking up in the middle of the night and talking hotly and hurriedly to himself in pollysyllabic epitheta.

With the vote coming next Saturday, the tar is boiling in Tarheelia, and the boys and girls—especially the girls—are talking high, shrill and staccato.

To all of them, the issue in that fight is the Big Shot of all issues.

The Baileyites are saying: "The issue is party loyalty. If we are going to let a Democratic Senator run the knife of internecine warfare into his party and be rewarded with another nomination for twisting it around five times in the gaping wound, what's going to become of us? When Simmons bolted Al Smith, he then and there ceased to be a Democrat. He made himself a traitor, by the great horn spoon! And you know what we hot-blooded, high-born Southerners do to traitors!"

* * * *

THE Simmons leaders are intoning: "Things have come to a pretty pass in this republic when a senator of the United States can't follow the dictates of his own conscience. When Simmons thought it right to bolt Al Smith, there was nothing else for him to do. Besides, the fact that the State went for Hoover is final proof that he was representing faithfully the sentiment of North Carolina."

Much more than that is being breathed, hinted and whispered. As religious bigotry played a big part in the fight against Smith, it is riding high, hard and powerful down the valleys and up the mountain sides of the old North State today.

And when religious bigotry cuts loose in North Carolina the fellows at the crossroads stores emit threatening yelps, bite chews off of plugs of tobacco in a way vividly suggestive of a rattlesnake striking at a defenseless leg and pull their long, white whiskers with such emphatic violence that the resulting pain in the facial epidermis adds fuel to the flames of their condemnatory wrath.

* * * *

NO issues? The issue is: When is a man a Democrat—and when is he a bolting traitors?—and why shouldn't he bolt?—and wasn't Al Smith a Democrat?—and are he and Raskob financing Simmons?—and a lot of talk about the Pope thrown in!

All of which causes the Republicans to view the scene with a swelling sense of gratitude and a spreading grin of optimism.

They argue that, when the Democrats get that mad with each other, a lot of them will stay mad until election day and turn Republican.

And that thought is enough to knock the tar out of any Tarheel, whether he wears the Simmons harness or flaunts a Bailey button.

TWO NEW OFFICES IN BRITISH CABINET

Dominions and Colonies to Have Own Portfolios, Premier Reveals.

FORMER GOES TO THOMAS

London, June 3 (A.P.).—The Labor government today abolished a cabinet office and created two in its place.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald cleared away rumors which had been rife for a week when, in the House of Commons, he announced separation of the offices of secretary of state for dominions and colonies and creation of offices for each of those two divisions.

Showing that the plan had been maturely formed, the premier at once appointed J. H. Thomas lord privy seal, who has been director of the unemployment problem, to the portfolio of the dominions.

Lord Passfield has been the dominions and colonies secretary, but the premier did not include his name in the announcement.

Mr. MacDonald said the change was made necessary by approach of the imperial conference in October, the nature of the conference's business, he asserted, made it imperative that there be a head over each department, "both for interimperial purposes and for our own unemployment policies."

Winston Churchill inquired as to the creation of "a new salaried post of the first magnitude" and the premier said he intended some years ago that the dominions, because of their position in the constitution, should be separated from the colonies.

Readjustment of the machinery set up for relief of unemployment will be the next necessity of the government, the premier declared. That responsibility will be placed in safe hands, he indicated. He said announcements to that end would be made in due time.

There had been criticism of the government's unemployment program in the Labor party's ranks as well as without and the transfer of J. H. Thomas to the dominions post fitted into the government's plans for reorganization of that branch of activity.

PACKERS' CASE GOES UNDER ADVISEMENT

Motion to Dismiss Petitions for Modification of Decree Considered.

ARGUMENT IS LENGTHY

Justice Jennings Bailey in District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday took under advisement motions to dismiss petitions for the modification of the packers consent decree filed several months ago by the Armour and Swift company groups.

Action of the justice followed lengthy argument during which special Government counsel declared that if the court sustained the motions to dismiss that no further dilatory tactics would be tolerated. The decree, which was upheld by the United States Supreme Court last summer, was supposed to have become effective last November. By it the big packers would have been divorced from unallied industries. The original decree was signed in 1920 and in the modification petitions Swift and Armour point out that merchandising methods have changed during the decade and assert that "so many organizations, including chain food stores, have developed to such a point that any monopoly or restraint of trade is wholly impossible."

Formulation of the packers consent decree orignally eliminated a strenuous antitrust action brought by the Government against the then big four packers—Swift, Armour, Morris, Cudahy. At that time it was charged that the packing firms were operating in restraint of trade by activities in other lines not directly associated with their industry.

The hearing yesterday was also on motions to intervene filed on behalf of several grocery organizations which objected to the modification petition.

Edgar Watkins, attorney for the American Wholesale Grocers Association, and Frank Nebeker, counsel for the National Wholesale Grocers Association, declared that the court lacked jurisdiction to modify the decree, and asked for dismissal of the modification petitions.

Frank J. Hogan, counsel for the Swift and Armour groups, declared that the decree is a "shackle" which the packers sought to amend by their modification petitions.

HALF-MILLION MEN IN CHINESE BATTLE

Rebels Fighting Nationalist Armies on Four Fronts in North Honan.

TSINAN BEING EMPTIED

Shanghai, June 3 (A.P.).—Rebel armies on four battlefronts today challenged the supremacy of the Nationalist government of China. Fighting which began May 8 with only a few thousand men has reached huge dimensions, more than a half million troops being engaged.

Strengthened by reinforcements, the northern alliance armies flung themselves at the Nationalists in a general offensive along the Haichow-Tungkwan Railroad in northern Honan province. In this area it is said at least 400,000 men were fighting to determine the future of China.

The Nationalists, beaten back to Kweiteh, Honan, by fierce rebel onslaughts a few days ago, advanced to meet the rebel attack. Rested by a few days' respite from battle, their numbers increased to 150,000 men, the Nationalists were reported to have responded to orders of President Chiang Kai-Shek for a general advance.

Nationalists Continue Advance.

In a left wing action, a heavy force of Nationalists continued to advance along the Peiping-Hankow Railway in central Honan. Endeavoring to thrust the northerners back into their base at Chengchow, they have met with strong resistance.

Edging in on the Nationalists' right flank of their main body the northerners were rushing reinforcements into northern Shantung province. Their object was to smash their way southward across the Yellow River and attack Tsinan.

Chinese of that city fled by train to Tsingtao on the coast, their departure hurried by the explosion of the Nationalist powder house at Tsinan. Powder house guards were killed in the explosion, supposedly caused by rebel agents. The Nationalists were drawn up along the Yellow River to prevent the Northerners from crossing.

Changsha Is Threatened.

Employing the traditional Chinese strategy, the rebels began an attack in the rear to draw off the Nationalists' frontal assault in Honan. Moving northward from Kwangsi Province, rebels united with a strong bandit force with the decared object of attacking the tricities, Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang on the Yangtse River in central China. Already they have approached Changsha, chief city of Hunan, threatening its capture. Foreigners of the city appealed to their governments to send gunboats for their protection. And to meet the new menace, the Northerners withdrew troops that had been advancing toward Chengchow, thus weakening their front in central Honan.

French Rains Mar Visits to Graves

Gold Star Mothers Take Extra Precautions During Trips.

Paris, June 3 (A.P.). — Torrential rains, which have persisted until farmers have begun to despair of the ripening of their crops, today continued to mar the pilgrimage of American Gold Star Mothers to the battlefield cemeteries wherein lie their heroic sons.

The mothers continued their visits here today, but with due precautions against the weather. Because they went prepared there were fewer ill effects from the continued dampness. The Chateau Thierry contingent made another pilgrimage to Belleau Wood. They visited Lieut. Quentin Roosevelt's grave near Fereen-Tardenois, and decorated a monument to the French war dead.

PALESTINE SUBJECT OF LEAGUE SESSION

Immigration Ban Is Linked With India Troubles Facing British.

MANDATE REPORT GIVEN

Geneva, June 3 (A.P.).—Behind closed doors the permanent mandates commission of the League of Nations today examined the delicate situation in Palestine.

Its first step was to hear the report of British government representatives on how the mandatory power is proceeding in its effort to maintain a policy of well-balanced justice as between Jews and Arabs in this Holy Land of three religious groups.

The representatives are T. Drummond Schiels, undersecretary of state for colonies; H. C. Luke, secretary general of the high commission in Palestine, and T. I. K. Lloyd, of the colonial office.

In a written report Secretary Schiels reaffirmed the government's determination to execute the mandate: To provide a national home for Jews and at the same time to insure that the rights of the non-Jewish populations in Palestine should not be impaired.

India Troubles Linked.

Interest centered about the matter of immigration, recently suspended by Great Britain. Protests from Jewish communities throughout the world have reached the Geneva body since recent suspension, which evidently brought down upon the MacDonald government severe criticism from those most anxious to see the Zionist movement succeed.

There was no lack of suggestions that the present troubled state of India was connected with this immigration restriction, a move interpreted as favorable to the Arab contentions.

Problem of Saturation.

British officialdom has denied any such connection.

Land settlement and development—as emphasized by Secretary Henderson before the council recently as well as in a statement today—are vitally associated with Jewish immigration.

The principle which Britain had promulgated for Palestine economic welfare is to permit immigration up to and not beyond the capacity of the country to absorb newcomers. How to determine the point of saturation, the mandatory power admitted, was its most difficult problem.

After the mandate's commission has heard the British spokesmen and completed a study of the Shaw report, it is presumed it will prepare recommendations regarding the British administration of Palestine for presentation to the league in September.

Dinner Given For Birthday Of Sovereign

Canadian Envoy Host at Fete in Legation in Honor of King.

By JEAN ELIOT.

IN celebration of the birthday of King George V, the Minister of Canada, Mr. Vincent Massey, entertained at dinner last evening at the legation for a distinguished company of men, including the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and envoys of the several states under the British flag. For many years there has been a dinner at the British Embassy in Washington on the king's birthday, but this year the Canadian Legation was chosen for the fete as the British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay are moving. They expect to be established in the new embassy in Massachusetts avenue by the end of this week.

Names affectionately remembered in Washington were among those listed yesterday as having received "birthday honors" from King George. Not only did Sir Esme Howard, for years British Ambassador to the United States, receive a barony, but Mr. Henry Getty Chilton was made a knight commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George and becomes Sir Henry Getty Chilton. He served as counselor of embassy in Washington for a long period while Sir Esme Howard was British Ambassador and was frequently charge d'affaires.

Since leaving Washington, Sir Henry has been serving as British Minister to the Vatican, but, if memory serves, his transfer to a South American post was recently reported. Lady Chilton is an American, the daughter of Mr. Thomas H. O'Brien, former United States Ambassador to Japan. Sir Henry and Lady Chilton have two charming daughters, Betty and Anne. Miss Betty Chilton made her debut in Washington, Miss Anne Chilton having her first taste of formal society in Rome after her father's transfer to the Holy See.

Unless my knowledge of the intricacies of the British peerage is at fault, Sir Esme Howard is now Lord Howard, but his wife will remain Lady Isabella since, as the daughter of Prince Giustiniani-Bandini, Earl of Newburgh, she receives her title by inheritance. The Newburghs, a Catholic family, fled England during one of the periods of religious persecution and settled in Italy, where Lady Isabella Howard was born, grew to womanhood and was married. But the British earldom came to her father in unbroken succession.

Vita-minutes give you Two for One

THE special quality of the morning hours is an important factor in advertising.

"Time is money" . . . here's a familiar expression that you've probably heard, and used yourself, many times.

And, if you've ever thought much about it, you know that time varies in value.

For example, authorities point out that 70 per cent of the world's work is done in four short morning hours! Their minutes find people fresher, keener . . . so much quicker to decide and to do . . . that they are distinguished from the minutes of other hours by the term "Vita-Minutes." By every standard of measure a "Vita-Minute" is worth two or three later ones!

And it is the fact that The Post is sought and read during these "Vita-Minutes" that enables it to give "two-for-one" value to its advertisers. It delivers their messages to you when you are in the most receptive mood . . . and when, once you've made your buying decision, you are going to market.

Perhaps, most important, is its unusual editorial strength and reputation. The financial pages of The Post, for instance, are complete with the latest quotations and authoritative business articles. Its interesting, timely and well-written sport pages, too, have won a large following.

Indeed, its intense reader interest is indicated by The Post's large and growing circulation. Advertisers know of these many Post advantages. They know a Post campaign brings results.

The Washington Post.

OLAYA IS RECEIVED AT NAVAL ACADEMY

President-Elect of Colombia Precommencement Guest of Midshipmen.

GIRL PRESENTS COLORS

Annapolis, Md., June 3.—With commencement day, climax of the year's most festive period at the Naval Academy only two days away, a varied and interesting program of exercises and social gayeties was presented today. The throngs of visitors who have been on hand for the last few days were greatly augmented by the arrival of hundreds of others from many parts of the world.

The President-elect of Colombia, Enrique Olaya, was a special guest during part of the afternoon, with members of his staff. Mr. Olaya motored here from Washington and his arrival within the reservation at 4 o'clock was marked by the national salute of 21 guns, fired from the battery of the station ship Reina Mercedes.

For a little more than two hours he was busily engaged in making an inspection of the Naval Academy lay-out under the escort of Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent, and his staff.

Kiss Dispensed With.

Mr. Olaya was particularly impressed by the regimental dress parade, at which the presentation of the national and regimental colors was made to the First Company, commanded by Midshipman Lieut. Thomas B. Hughes, of Kansas City, Kans. The presentation was made by Miss Alberta Ely, also of Kansas City. It is an old tradition for a girl to officiate at this ceremony. The presentation was made without the customary kiss from the girl. Authorities of the academy have stopped the practice, saying that the kiss stripped the ceremony of much of its dignity. Also it is a matter of tradition that the girl making the award is supposed to be the fiancee of the winning company commander.

There was no room for doubt of this on this occasion, as the engagement of Midshipman Hughes and Miss Ely was announced some time ago. Hughes obtained his marriage license here today and the wedding will take place soon after graduation Thursday.

Tonight two of the more exclusive social functions were given. The Superintendent and Mrs. Robison were hosts to the graduates and girl friends at a garden party in the spacious grounds about their residence in Blake road. The grounds were effectively decorated and illuminated by an array of Japanese lanterns, and the moon shone from a cloudless sky.

While the graduates were thus being entertained members of the class of 1931 were hosts to their friends at the class ring dance given in Luce Hall. This marked the formal dedication of class rings and was a brilliant function. Members of the class of 1932 entertained their friends at a dance in MacDonough Hall.

17 Weddings Planned.

During the forenoon, visitors thronged to Worden Field and watched a physical drill. A band concert was held at 4 o'clock.

Sixteen weddings among the graduates are known to be on the tapis this far, all to take place as early as possible after the commencement ceremonies. In addition to the license by Midshipman Hughes, four others were secured from the license bureau in the circuit today, and eleven others had previously been issued. Others obtained today follow: Julius L. Smith, Macon, Ga., Marjorie M. Boaze, Annapolis; William B. Steiner, Missouri, Mrs. Lucille Purdie White, Annapolis, widow of Ensign John W. White, who was drowned in California two years ago; B. Voorhees Clark, California, Adrienne Hedger, San Francisco; Walter F. Prien and Flora Louise Young, both of Milwaukee, Wis.

Another naval wedding to take place here will be that of Ensign Wilbur S. Phillips, Salisbury, Md., class of 1929, and Miss M. Mildred Besom, New Haven, Conn.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

—By JOHN J. DALY—

ROMAINE CALLENDER is winning new laurels for himself these days down in the National Theater, playing the part of Count Dracula in Bram Stoker's weird thriller. Right alongside of the old Belasco star is a home product, back from the wiles of Broadway, none other than John Kline, the trouper of troupers.

* * * *

NOT satisfied in giving their audiences a bunch of thrills in this outlandish play, the National Theater Players are going to forget all about "Dracula" tomorrow afternoon and take a ride in the clouds. It seems that somebody or other enticed Mr. Cochran and his troupe into accepting an invitation to go aloft in a trimotored airplane capable of carrying the entire cast. So no time will be lost, Mr. Clifford Brooke plans to rehearse the next play; or, at least, parts of it, in the sky.

* * * *

UP in New York, all the town has gone mad over The Players' Club revival of Arnold Bennett's 18-year-old play, "Milestones." It carries a cast of distinction, with some of the most prominent players in the American theater working for the pure joy of it. As a curtain raiser, the Players have put on a one-act play, "The Little Father of the Wilderness," by Austin Strong, and his uncle, Lloyd Osbourne. Though this play lasts only 20 minutes it claims the world's largest and most distinctive cast, having all the Broadway stars and stareens as supers, and what have you. All this high-priced entertainment is being exhibited for the week at the old Empire Theater, Forty-first and Broadway.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH Mr. Burns Mantle, the eminent selector of the season's best plays, has failed to include the Papa Belasco hit, "It's a Wise Child," that opus celebrated its 350th performance on Broadway last night, which is something of a record run for plays in this day and generation. As announced, the Burns Mantle selections are: "Green Pastures," the Marc Connelly play that won the Pulitzer prize; "Berkeley Square," John Balderston's play that opened here in the Belasco for its first American showing; "Strictly Dishonorable," an adroit comedy built around the goings-on in a Forty-ninth street speakeasy; "The First Mrs. Fraser," St. John Irvine's comedy of divorce; "The Last Mile," having to do with mutiny in the death house of a State prison; "June Moon," Ring Lardner's satirical comedy of the song-writing game; "Death Takes a Holiday," an importation first seen in Washington; "Michael and Mary," an A. A. Milne comedy, and "Rebound." There will be the usual pot shots taken at this list.

Garrison Street Action Begun.

The District of Columbia yesterday began proceedings to condemn land for the extension of Garrison street between Thirty-ninth street and Belt road northwest. The action is brought under acts of Congress of March 4, 1913, and May 28, 1926. Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride and Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Fowler appear for the District Commissioners in the proceedings.

GIRLS' CLASS HEARS ADDRESS BY STOKES

Canon of Cathedral Talks at National School's Graduation.

REV. BRATENAHL LAUDED

Imagination and consecration are two essentials of a Christian and successful life, the Rev. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of Washington Cathedral, declared in an address given before the senior class of the National Cathedral School for Girls at its graduation in Bethlehem Chapel yesterday morning.

That Christ showed the greatest imagination and consecration of any person in history was also pointed out by Dr. Stokes. The preacher paid a tribute to the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, who was absent from yesterday's ceremonies because of illness. Dean Bratenahl, Dr. Stokes asserted, possesses the qualities of consecration and imagination to an unusual degree.

The office for commencement was conducted by the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, chancellor and canon of Washington Cathedral, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, the Rev. Arthur B. Rudd and the Rev. Pinckney Wroth.

Candidates for diplomas numbering 28 in person and 11 members of the class who are now in college and had received their certificates "in absentia," were presented by Miss Mabel Turner, head of the National Cathedral School for Girls, to Chancellor Peter, who handed each her diploma.

The Washington girls among the graduates included Lucy Mackall, of Georgetown, who took first honors; Frances Taylor Cole, Patsy Aiken Douglas, Ann Elizabeth Henning, Louise Carrington Hoehling, Brownie McKee, Louise Madaline Turner and Sylvia Contee Meredith.

The other graduates were Mary Eleanor Brett, Margaret Brown, Marion Paige Campbell, Virginia Lockwood Chewning, Helen Chickering, Jean Dutton, Cheryl Eveleen Ellsworth, Jean Harriett Graham, Susan Francis Hill, Kathleen Karker, Convere Jones McAden, Josephine Townsend Moore, Mariana du Pont, Marjorie Roberts Rees, Virginia Bill Reid, Katherine Rhoads Stark, Margaret Peck Thomas, Elizabeth Osborne Ware, Cyane Dandridge Williams and Cornelia Wing.

Members of the class in college who will receive their diplomas later are Marion Alter, Lorol Roden Bowron, Josephine Cook, Elizabeth Laning Culbertson, Rion Fortescue, Lillian Adair Hastings, Jane Embick Humphrey, Mary Bruce Mackall, Martha McKelvy Manning, Phyllis Clendenny Myers and Nancy Elizabeth Van Buren.

Tailor Files Bankruptcy Plea.

Abraham Glanzman, a tailor, of 931 Ninth street northwest, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a voluntary bankrupt. Liabilities of $5,064.68 and assets of $4,029.50 are listed.

Meeting of Friends Due To Be Held Next Sunday

The Sandy Spring quarterly meeting of Friends will be held in the old brick Meeting House Sunday at 10:30 a. m. Luncheon will be served following the morning service. The public is invited.

Tailor Acquitted On Liquor Charge

Defense Draws From Police Statement They Knew Rum Was to Be Found.

Howard Pickkett, colored, who operates a tailor shop on D street northwest near Sixth street, almost in the shadow of the Police Court, was acquitted by a jury in that tribunal yesterday afternoon on a charge of second offense possession of liquor. The case required less than 10 minutes to try and the jury was out only a few minutes.

Pickett was arrested last April 29, when a raiding squad led by Richard Cox, then acting head of the Police Roving Vice Squad, entered his establishment armed with a search warrant. Cox and other members of his squad testified they found a quart of liquor in the sleeve of a coat in a rear room.

Pickett, on the stand, declared that he did not know that the liquor was there. Defense Attorneys John P. Mullen and James B. Archer drew from the police the statement that they had information that the liquor could be found in the coat and this evidence was emphasized.

Taxi Presidents Go Before Court

Leon Brill and W. G. Ostrow, presidents of the Bell Cab Co. and the City Cab Co., respectively, were arraigned in Police Court yesterday afternoon on charges of illegal operation of taxicabs on "L" or livery license plates. Judge Ralph Given continued the case until Friday to permit counsel for the defendants and the District to file statements of fact.

Both Brill and Ostrow were cited on the charges by Sergt. J. D. Harrington, who declared he wants the court to decide as to the restrictions under which cabs bearing "L" plates can operate. Harrington charges that cabs bearing "L" plates are violating the law by using the streets as cab stands when the licenses are issued only to cabs which operate on call from specified garages.

Harrington states that under the present method of operation "L" cabs are enjoying the same privileges as "H" cabs, although tags for the latter cost more. "H" cabs, according to Harrington, can operate anywhere except in taxicab stands.

Capitol Check Brings Charge.

William C. Haldeman was indicted by the District of Columbia grand jury yesterday on a charge of false pretenses in connection with his alleged action in inducing Representative Franklin F. Korell, of Oregon, to indorse a check for $40 which was cashed at the Capitol.

Women Are Victimized Of $118 by Pickpockets

Pickpockets were active in two stores yesterday morning looting women's purses of a total of $118. Mrs. E. Woodworth, of 305 Nicholson street northwest, was robbed of $25; Mrs. William Harrington, of Alexandria, Va., had $27 taken and a woman who refused to give her name reported to the manager of a store on F street near Thirteenth that she had lost $15.

Mrs. Grace M. Dalsh, of 318 Sixth street northeast, reported that while in a store on G street near Eleventh street northwest $51 was taken from her handbag. Mrs. Woolworth said that she missed the money when her attention was called to her handbag, which she was carrying on her arm, hanging open. A smaller purse, which contained the money, was found to be missing.

Vigilant Police Save Calf From Slaughter Ax

Police, seeking "a yellow calf in the rumble seat of an automobile," arrived at the Benning abattoir yesterday just in time to save one expensive young heifer from the poleax. The calf, a prize Jersey, was stolen Monday night from Herbert David, of McLean, Va.

Davis left the calf grazing in his front yard and awoke next morning to find it gone. He picked up the trail when he talked to several people who had been offered the calf, which was being transported on the afterdeck of a roadster. A phone call to detective headquarters sent men to the slaughter house, where they found their quarry. The vender of the calf, who received $12 for his booty, has disappeared.

"NEVER mind where I've been, Bill . .

I'm back at the AMOCO PUMP to stay!"

"Haven't seen you for some time, Mr. Parks. Been out-of-town?"

It was an attendant in a service station in a Pennsylvania city talking to a motorist.

Mr. Parks smiled sheepishly. "Never mind where I've been, Bill. But I'm back at the Amoco pump to stay."

As the attendant proceeded to fill his tank with Amoco-Gas, Mr. Parks volunteered more information.

"I learned my lesson," he continued. "I'd been reading a lot of ads and hearing a lot of talk about gas just as good as Amoco and how I could save money. I bit.

"It didn't seem like the same car but I decided it might be worth it if I saved enough money. Save money? I didn't get the mileage in the first place and after four thousand miles things got so bad I couldn't stand it. I took her into the shop and--well, it cost me $32.50 to get her back in shape."

He paid for ten gallons with a smile and started his motor.

"I can tell you it feels good to get Amoco back in her again. Boy, if I'd heard another knock I'd have gone crazy. No more [illegible], Bill. I'm back here to stay."

Bill smiled as he gave him his change. He'd heard the same story many times before. Experience had taught him that the most enthusiastic users of Amoco-Gas are those who have tried the "just-as-goods."

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

A MOONLIGHT GARDEN.

NEVER is a garden lovelier than in the moonlight. The crickets and katydids seem to carry along the melody to the accompaniment of the whir of the night moths wings—the theme, here and there, being taken up by the frog basses of the pool and the constant splash of the water as the brook splashes from stone to stone.

There is always a subtle charm about a garden after sundown, when the shadows lengthen and finally fade into the darkness of the horizon. Even the fragrance of the lavender and roses seems more sweet. We feel the urge of the poet who said:

"Not God in gardens! When the sun is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign!
'Tis very sure God walks in mine."

As a Nation we are living more and more in the open. In fact, many families during the warmer weather serve the evening meal out of doors; and because of the real joy of watching a sunset they await the arising of the moon.

Of late years, because gardens are really being used more in the evenings, certain night-blooming plants have become more popular. It is a pity that more people are not familiar with these fragile blossoms that open in the moonlight—for while they are interesting, their beauty in most cases far exceeds even the interest of their unusual time of unfolding their velvety petals.

So if you have a garden which you really enjoy, do let me urge you to enhance its evening beauty by planting over one end of your pergola, or about your veranda, a moon flower, which grows without coaxing and asks only fertile soil and an occasional drink.

The moon flower is such a rapid grower that it will form a wonderful shield to prevent the too penetrating rays of some nearby arclight from spoiling the comfort of your porch. When only six weeks old this vine will be a mass of star-shaped, white blossoms which will open as the sun goes down. It must be grown from seed each season, as it is not hardy.

And the evening primrose in the twilight is resplendent with a mass of yellow flowers which exhale faint fragrance on the evening air. The pale yellow of these blossoms gleams through the darkness, while their fragrance seems like a mute invitation to the pink night moth which is a frequent visitor and benefactor.

And if you use your garden in the evening, do plant some nicotiana, whose starry flowers will open so wide at night and peer up at the stars above. Nicotiana always seems more fragrant in the evening. A garden adorned with a few night flowers will be a garden in which you will want to linger.

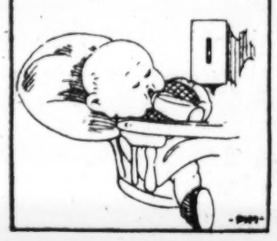
Baby Mine



What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

"GEMINI"

IF June 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:30 a. m. to 11:45 a. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight.

A time of intense interest and activity is augured for this date—travel and change. The influences will instill one with self courage and importance and opportunities will be met more than half way.

The child born on this June 4 will have a jolly, happy and contented nature. It may well be hopeful as it has an interesting life ahead of it. It will take a keen interest in games and sports, will be a fair student, and a great lover of nature.

The world has its givers and its takers, and you are one of the latter. It is not difficult for you to pass the buck, when you are confronted with things which you do not like to do. It is easy for you to claim incompetence and to be a "I cant-er," when up against distasteful pulls. You have a certain amount of charm and a convincing nature, and there are usually plenty of voluntary slaves ready to ease your way. You are not ungrateful, but you do many times take things too much for granted.

You admire frankness and sincerity, but you do not always have the courage to stand up to your convictions. You dislike arguing, and on small things you would rather give in than to fight. You are stubborn rather than strong willed. You will probably fall into a well defined rut before you attain a great age, and will be content to remain there.

You have some musical ability, and will always enjoy and appreciate good music, even if you do not execute it yourself. You easily lose yourself in a book, and often neglect other things for this pleasure. Happiness and prosperity is predicted through marriage.

Successful people born June 4:

1—King George III.
2—Jeremy Balknap—Founded Massachusetts Historical Society.
3—Eckley B. Coxe—Mining engineer.
4—Wendell P. Garrison—Editor and author.
5—Samuel B. Whitney—Composer.
6—Walter L. Dean—Artist.

Jane Interprets the Mode

A flare at the hip is successfully achieved in such a material as black georgette. Note the line in the back. (Courtesy of Molyneux, Paris).

THEY say 50,000,000 Frenchmen Can't Be Wrong—but one Frenchman can and often is. Everyone makes mistakes in every language and every country of course, but then one can make mistakes that are just laughed at and not annoying, can't one?

Sure, I'm off again! But then he was a famous fashion authority, and on a trip to America and pressed for something to say for an interview, he had to go and say that long skirts came back because women were ashamed of their legs and knees!

Is tha-a-a-a-a-at so! It's too bad you couldn't have prefaced your remark with at least something like, "It's my opinion." Mr. M-m-m-pf Mmmpf. But to come right out like that and tell us why we do the things that we do is going a little too strong, don't you think so?

Although they are admittedly the last word in chic and elegance, your countrywomen also admit to having the ugliest feet and legs in the world. Perhaps they might have brought the long skirt back for this reason. But I doubt it. Because even in your country, Mr. M-m-m-mp Mmmmpf, modern women don't think about such mundane things as legs.

Not because we had legs that were in need of hiding or knees either, have we taken to the long skirt. We have taken to them simply as an inevitable reaction to the extremeness of short skirts, and on the same grounds we have reacted to the extremeness of long skirts and held forth for a middle ground. Shapely extremities or the lack of them didn't have anything to do with the matter. (Er, by the way, that's what I think, anyway!)

• • • •

I tell you there is something positively divine about Molyneux designs! They seem to have everything, chic, smartness, charm and discretion.

And they are wearable—just see the beautiful evening gown in today's illustration! Nothing but the silhouette, the way it fits the wearer, and the very discreet front corsage of two roses—but how lovely it is.

The back shows a typical Molyneux line, which is extremely flattering to the feminine figure, because it hides that very often ugly line that shows just below the normal waistline in the back. The second line of ruffles lends grace to the wearer's walk—makes one wonder how a mere man can know so well just what a woman's figure needs to make it lovely.

• • • •

Before you do another thing, sit down and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the new illustrated leaflet. Because this time especially it's bound to be something you haven't already bought lots of, what with Paris just beginning to break out in them. I mean, they are the latest thing in sports collars and cuffs and hats and scarfs, and you know yourself that you can't have too many of those gadgets. At least, send for the leaflet and see if they aren't just what you most want.

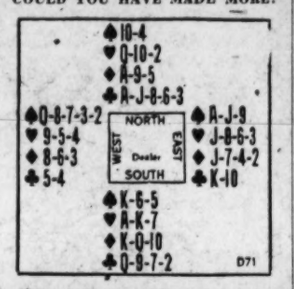
• • • •

And, we might advise again, you shouldn't miss the weekly Dare fashion letter, in the big Sunday Washington Post every Sunday.

Au revoir!

WORK'S BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE MADE MORE?



The above hand was played in a game of Contract Bridge. South bid two No Trumps and North three.

Had the play been at Auction Bridge, South would have been the Declarer with a contract of one No Trump.

West led the Trey of Spades. East won the trick with the Ace and returned the higher of his two remaining Spades—the Jack. Declarer, in virtually the same position that he would have been on the first trick if he had held Ace and two small Spades, held up his King until the third round of the suit so that if East held the King of Clubs and if West had led from five Spades, the game could not be saved by the adversaries when Declarer tried his club finesse. When South won the third Spade he led a Club and finessed, but East did not have another Spade to lead and so Declarer took the remaining tricks and made four-odd.

—Could you have made more?

The Correct Play.

Declarer could not have made more; it was East who failed to appreciate his opportunities.

South had bid two No. Trumps initially and consequently had a count of at least 17. The most that his hand could count in Clubs was 2, in Diamonds 5, and in Hearts 7; so to make his 17 he must have at least 3 in Spades — which marked South with the King of Spades at least. South might have both King and Queen; if so, the position of the adversaries was hopeless. As West could not have more than five Spades, South must have at least three; so the King of Spades could not be caught by playing the Ace. Consequently East should have played the Jack of Spades on the first trick, knowing that if he did so South with the King would not dare to hold up because it would look to him as if West had Ace-Queen.

The Jack play doubtless would have saved the game as South, winning tric: 1 and counting as sure one Spade, three Hearts, three Diamonds and one Club, would try the Club finesse for game; and East, obtaining the lead with his King of Clubs, then would be able to lead Spades and East and West would set the Declarer by taking four Spade tricks.

The Goofus Polorus

(Suggested by Ham Fisher, N. Y., Age 8)

The Goofus Polorus looks much like a Walrus
Except that his tusks have a curl,
In fact, look like corkscrews,
Which I think he might use
To give any bottle a twirl.
In winter in snowshoes
In summer in no shoes
He lives as you see on the ice,
Though the palm trees he grows
In symmetrical rows
Prove he thinks that the tropics are nice!

What infinite relief to know Kotex deodorizes

Kotex gives you every refinement of comfort and protection... and it deodorizes a complete, safe way.

DAINTINESS makes one important demand which some women overlook. And Kotex answers that demand. It deodorizes, by a special process, as it is worn. You've no idea what a relief it is!

And Kotex gives you—too—the relief that comes with safe protection. It is filled, you know, with Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. This is a cellulose substance which, for sanitary purposes, fulfills the same function as cotton with 5 times the absorbency.

Used in leading hospitals

In world-famous hospitals, where health protection is doubly vital, this very same absorbent is now used today ... 85% of America's leading hospitals now use Kotex filler, so its superiority and safety are unquestioned for your use.

Kotex is never bulky and uncomfortable, because it is fashioned in a way that eliminates bulk and makes the pad inconspicuous under the closest fitting frocks. It is not only soft to feel, but soft to wear. And that softness lasts — it doesn't pack into chafing hardness.

Once you use it, you'll find it indispensable. There are many reasons why—and one is the fact that it is so easily disposed of. That fact alone has changed the hygienic habits of millions of women the world over. Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

NATS OPEN INVASION WITH 8-4 VICTORY AT DETROIT

Pegler

NEW YORK, June 3.—Unlike the citizens of Louisville, and the surrounding country, the people of this town are unlikely to lose their self-control over the matter of a horse race. Still, the impending contest on Saturday between Whichone, the Whitney horse which won the 2-year-old championship last year, and Gallant Fox, The Horse in the Red Mask, is arousing uncommon interest.

Only today, your correspondent heard a couple of men discussing the matter in a restaurant. One of them said he might go out and look except that they make it so expensive and inconvenient to look at a horse race around here and the other party said, "When is this race and where is it going to be?"

Gallant Fox Is A Celebrity.

This represents a state of hysteria over a horse race in these parts and the excitement is due largely to the circumstances. Gallant Fox won the Wood Memorial, the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby, the most effectively ballyhooed horse race in the United States, in rapid succession. And while New York is not very horse-conscious, having other dissipations more accessible and less laborious, the constant paper-talk about Gallant Fox has made him a momentary celebrity.

I doubt that one person in a hundred thousand hereabouts could pick Gallant Fox out of a pack of wagon stock unless he wore his red mask and number, although there breathes no soul so dead among the entire six millions that he couldn't identify Babe Ruth by his shadow on a window shade. And Whichone has been seen only twice and then only for a few minutes and most of the time from afar and by only a few people, since he won the Futurity at Belmont Park last fall.

Race Is Called A Natural.

These two, Gallant Fox and Whichone, come to the Belmont Stakes, the championship 3-year-olds race of the season, in the kind of rivalry which in the prize fight business is called a natural. As Sharkey and Schmeling are to the prize fight trade just now, Gallant Fox and Whichone are to the horse track.

Whichone's reputation is mostly an afterglow or reflection of his 2-year-old prestige, but it may be remembered that Schmeling hasn't fought a round, himself, since he beat up Old Paulino Uzcudun just a little less than a year ago. Whichone took an idle walk of 1 mile, Wednesday, his first appearance of the season, and won easily, and again last Saturday, but, to pursue the comparison one degree further, this was somewhat as though Schmeling had knocked out some patient, hopeless itinerant in a trial contest. Whichone finished yawning in both outings.

So the horses, personally, are almost total strangers to the common customers on these grounds, in contrast to Kentucky, where the school law says no child can be graduated from kindergarten until he or she can identify any steed in training by the sound of the animal's whinny.

New York People Regard Horse as a Critter.

In New York, I tell you, the horse tracks are so far away from so many people and there are so many fenced-off places where a customer can't go unless he buys another badge of a different color, that most of the citizens regard a horse merely as a critter that does something when the driver says "Gee-haw," and wears a velour wrapper, not unlike the nap on a plug hat.

It is interesting to see the development of newspaper interest in contests that the people do not know much if anything about. This summer, by the same attraction, there will be much talking interest in the yacht race for the America's cup, although there aren't many individuals, even along this seaboard, who could tell you the difference between a racing sloop and a Lackawanna car float without consulting the encyclopedia.

Nevertheless, the Belmont Stake on Saturday will be a very celebrated horse race, for a purse of about $80,000, and Whichone, just now, is the favorite under the bootleg system of betting practiced here, being quoted at even money.

Raise $80,000 Pot By Poker Method.

They accumulate the $80,000 pot for the Belmont Stakes by a process somewhat similar to the poker method. It costs $10 to nominate your foal and later on there are further assessments of $100 to make brash owners pause and consider the price of optimism, followed at last by a starting fee of $250. There were 472 original nominees for this year's race, but a lot of owners dropped out at the first hoist and they have been

SCHMELING IS AIMING FOR QUICK VICTORY; PUNCHES VICIOUSLY

Max Is Prepared to Emulate Dempsey's Speedy Triumphs.

Believes Battle for Title Should End in a Knockout.

By MAX SCHMELING
(As told to Jimmy Powers).

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 3.—I will have one idea in mind when I enter the ring against Jack Sharkey the night of June 12—to win quickly and impressively.

Remember the old Dempsey, when he bounced through the ropes, jumped up and down on his toes and went out to either win his title, as he did against Jess Willard, or defend it, as he did against Firpo or Georges Carpentier, it was all over quickly. Bam! Bam! Bam! A flurry of slugs, a falling body and it was a knockout in a few rounds. There was no doubt in the minds of the fans as to who was the real champion—he won by more than a neck. He was lengths in front.

These same fans who compare my facial resemblance to Dempsey will have further reason to compare me with the old champion. At least I hope they will because I intend to fight that kind of a fight.

Directs Warning To Sharkey.

I think a real heavyweight championship fight should end in a knockout. I want the public, Jack Sharkey also, to know that I am not talking through my hat. I took delight in reading of the early struggles of Jack Dempsey. I read an account of every one of his fights and they will always live in my memory.

The charging, slugging Dempsey captured the imagination because he had one idea in mind—win, and win quickly. Of late there has been a tendency for heavyweights to take no chances, to gamble nothing and to fight business-like fights. That is not my idea of real sport.

The three victories of Gene Tunney carried little thrills. Twice Dempsey was on his feet at the end with the decision in Chicago questioned on all sides as the result of Referee Barry's long count. In his last defense of his title, Tunney severely punished Tom Heeney, yet Heeney was still on his feet when the referee intervened, even though he had been pushed over. The crowd left more sorry for Heeney than impressed by Tunney. Dempsey, by his clean-cut manner of stowing away opponents, eliminated the hurtful punishment and supplied the desired thrill.

Prepared to Take Hard Jolts.

It was said of Dempsey that his ferocious attack was his greatest defense. This is as it should be with a good hitter. He should prepare himself to withstand the jolts it is necessary for him to take while carrying on his rushing style of battle. That is the way I have prepared. I expect to get hit, but I expect to give back plenty in return.

I will be at my peak the night of June 12. Depend on me for that. I am naturally aggressive, and you will not see any stalling, clinching tactics on my part. I am going in there determined to end it as soon as I can.

If Jack Sharkey goes in there with the same determination to win as myself, and I have no reason to doubt that he will, then the fans are in for one wonderful night. Of course, I admire Dempsey, but I do not want always to be pointed out as a second Dempsey. The night of June 12 it will be the real Max himself.

Phils Release Alexander, Now 43

Veteran Passes Out of Majors After 20 Years of Pitching.

Would Work in Coast League; Known for Training Laxity.

PHILADELPHIA, June 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Philadelphia National League Ball Club today released Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran National League pitcher. The announcement marking the passing from the major leagues of one of the greatest pitchers of all time was made today by William F. Baker, president of the Phillies.

Alexander now becomes a free agent, all clubs in the National League having waived. He will remain on the pay roll of the Phillies, however, until he gets another position.

The passing of the 43-year-old Alexander takes out of the major leagues a man who compiled a record that surpassed that of Christy Mathewson for 372 games won. It also removes a personality that had no parallel in baseball's history.

Rated One of Three Greatest Pitchers.

Experts generally concede that there have been three great pitchers of modern times—Walter Johnson, specialist in speed; Christy Mathewson, of the famous "fadeaway," and Alexander, who combined speed, change of pace and infinite cunning. Johnson's pitching days are over and he now is manager of the Washington Senators; Mathewson is dead and today Alexander takes the back trail that waits for all ball players when their steely arms turn to lead.

It is typical of Alexander that he should refuse to believe he is through. After Baker's announcement today, the pitcher, in the drawl that is as famous as his curve, declared he still had winning ball in his arm. He is anxious to pitch on the Pacific Coast and it is understood that Baker is willing to help him obtain a job.

It was known that the only phase of baseball which Alexander did not enjoy was keeping training. Managers vainly attempted to persuade him to get eight hours' sleep on the night before he was due to work.

Was Phillies' Star in 1911.

It was useless and as often as not Alexander would go out the next day and pitch the game of his life.

He saw service on many fields. From 1911 to 1917 he was the bright star of the Philadelphia Nationals in the days when the club boasted such players as Cravath, Luderus and Killefer. In 1917 the famous battery of Alexander and Killefer was sold to the Chicago Cubs for something more than $50,000, a tremendous price in those days.

In the spring of 1926 the Cubs under the new management of Joe McCarthy were convinced Alexander would not keep training and asked for waivers on him. He was written out of the major leagues by many critics, but St. Louis obtained him and that summer he pitched them into the world series.

Twice during the world series he was called upon to start against the heaviest hitting team in baseball, the New York Yankees. Twice he beat them, allowing only four hits in the first game and eight in the next. In the seventh game, with the winning Successive Homers by Foxx and Miller Win Game, 4-2.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 3 (A.P.).—Jimmy Foxx and Bing Miller upset Dick Coffman with a successive home runs in the seventh inning, and the Athletics won from the Browns today, 4 to 1, in the opening game of the series. Previous to the home run attack, the Athletics had been unable to score. Coffman continued until the end, yielding a run in each the eighth and ninth.

Lefty Grove was taken out in the ninth and the ancient Jack Quinn retired the last two batters without trouble.

The victory enabled the Macks to hold the single game lead over the Nats. It was the ninth straight victory for the champions despite the loss of several important regulars.

Johnson Says Hadley Tries Too Hard

Has More Speed Than Marberry But Is Always Pressing.

Cronin Is Shifted to Break Up Succession of Left-Handers.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, June 3.—For the first time in a long while, Manager Walter Johnson today was in a quandary as to which pitcher he would use in tomorrow's second game of the current series with Harris' Tigers.

Irving Hadley has been complaining of a slightly sore pitching arm, but felt so much better today after one of Trainer Mike Martin's famous treatments, that he likely will be ready by tomorrow. If he is, he likely will get the call. Elon Hogsett, the Indian southpaw, is expected to perform on the hill for the Tigers.

In connection with Hadley's case, the Nat leader admits that he is completely stumped. He believes he knows the reason why Hadley has not been as successful as his pitching repertoire warrants, but does not know how to rectify it. "Hadley has more speed than Fred Marberry and one of the best curves of any pitcher in the league," said Johnson tonight in discussing his case, but he simply will not learn to go out there and stop pressing.

Always Extending Himself.

"Instead of tossing naturally and not bearing down until he has to," the Nat leader continued, "he's always extending himself. As a result, he gets in holes, is forced to groove the ball and disastrous results frequently follow. All good pitchers work naturally and only extend themselves when they have to. In other words, they always try to have a little something in reserve for emergencies. I've been preaching this to Hadley ever since I've been manager and before when I was with Irving in the ranks, but he does not seem to catch on to the idea. When he finally does, I look for him to be the best pitcher in the league, but until that time comes I'm not counting on any victories for him until his games are actually won."

"Any one who plays golf will know what I'm driving at," Johnson concluded. A good golfer is only good when he hits the ball naturally. The minute he starts pressing, he's likely either to pull or slice his shot. Well, that's the same thing Hadley is up against on the mound. His continued bearing down gets him in tight holes because it affects his control. Then a couple of hits come along and the game is lost."

Catcher Bennie Tate pulled up with a stiff neck this morning and did not get a great deal of pleasure when Trainer Mike Martin "cracked" it before today's game.

Nats' Southpaw Hitters Stopped by Southpaws.

If any of the opposing teams have left-handed pitchers, the Nats are sure to see them as often as possible. The bulk of the Washington punch is carried by Sam Rice, Joe Judge, Goose Goslin and Buddy Myer, all of whom swing from the wrong side of the plate. During the past two weeks, excluding today's game, these four southpaws have hit against fork-handers at no better than a .200 clip.

WHITEHILL POUNDED OUT OF BOX IN 7-RUN UPRISING IN SECOND

Westward Ho! Ho!

Spencer Gets 2 Hits as Club Bats Around in Big Inning.

Liska Weakens in 7th and Braxton Holds Tigers Hitless.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, June 3.—One big inning, the second, was sufficient to give the Nationals the decision over the Tigers here this afternoon in the opening game of their first Western invasion of the year. The 8-to-4 victory broke the Johnsons' losing streak, which had extended to five games, and also enabled them to keep pace one game behind the league-leading Athletics, who defeated the Browns, 4 to 1.

One of the pleasing features of the triumph was the fact that it was registered off the southpaw shoots of Earl Whitehill, who usually is rank poison for the Nats. He was ineffective today and after wiggling out of a tight hole in the first frame was pounded out during a seven-run barrage in the second canto. Charlie Sullivan and Whitlow Wyatt held the Nats to but one run over the balance of the route.

Adolph Liska pitched for the Nats at the start, but could not stand prosperity, and when his lead dwindled to a paltry three runs in the seventh he gave way to Garland Braxton, who pitched hitless ball from then until the end.

Rice, With 3 Singles, Leads Attack.

Sam Rice, with three singles, led both teams with the flail, with Bluege getting two doubles and Spencer a two-bagger and single. Gehringer and Johnson each got two safeties for the natives.

The Nats blew an excellent opportunity in the first frame, when, after Rice's single and walks to Goslin and Judge filled the bases, neither Myer nor Cronin could help any, but they overlooked nothing in their second trip to the tee.

After the Tigers had molded a run in their first, the result of Gehringer's double and McManus' single, they also having the bases full when the third out was retired, the Nats came in from the field and pounded Whitehill off the hill in determined fashion. Twelve came to bat, with Spen-

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

Special to The Washington Post.

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, June 3 Loepp started today's game by sending Outfielder Funk almost to the scoreboard for a high fly.

With the bases loaded and only one down in the first, "Pinky" Hargrave, Tiger catcher, misjudged Cronin's high pop foul, and then managed to snare it in his big mitt while stretching at arm's length.

Outfielder Roy Johnson went almost to the right field line to drag down Myer's looper, ending the first when the sacks were fully peopled. He foolishly did a little "grand standing," taking the ball with one hand when he just as easily and more surely could have used two.

With two out in the home half of the first, Johnson was credited with a single when his topped drive hit the home plate and bounced so high that the runner reached first almost before the ball came down in Catcher Spencer's mitt.

Bluege and Spencer opened round two with successive doubles, but the first named could get no farther than third on the catcher's blow because it was a Texas leaguer which both McManus and Fothergill nearly caught.

Whitehill, who walked four Nats in the first two innings, filled the bases on passes on three occasions, twice in round two. After Sullivan came in as a relief hurler, he passed Bluege, up for a second time, filling the sacks for the third time in the frame.

Pitcher Wyatt gave Catcher Roy Spencer a mean blow in the back with a fast one in the fifth canto.

Cronin and West almost had a collision while chasing Hargrave's short fly opening the Tiger fifth. Both yelled "I got it" at the same time and neither heard the other. Fortunately, Cronin saw the fly hawk tearing 'n

Giants Bunch Hits Off Benton, Trounce Reds

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—The Giants couldn't outhit the Cincinnati Reds today, but they could bunch their blows off their former teammate, Larry Benton, in the first three innings and the result was a 9-to-1 victory for New York.

Benton was driven from the mound in the third inning as the Giants scored eight of their runs right at the start. Ray Kolp finished with a two-hit performance for the rest of the game. Carl Hubbell yielded twelve hits, but kept them scattered and received fine support.

Hugh Critz, formerly of the Reds, celebrated his first appearance at the Polo Grounds in a Giant uniform by hitting a home run. Frank Hogan also hit a four-bagger.

DIOLITE 5-2 CHOICE AS BRITONS JAM EPSOM TODAY

One American Horse Among 19 Entries

Woodward's Scout II, 25-1, Carries U. S. Hopes Today.

Starters Resting in Luxury; King and Queen to Attend.

By FRANK H. KING.

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 3 (A.P.).—Premier Ramsay MacDonald has been telling the British Empire editors gathered here all about the future of the British Empire, but what the Britons, high and low, would like to know tonight is what speedy colt will win the 1930 Derby to be run tomorrow at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. E. S. T.) over 12 furlongs of the famous horseshoe shaped course atop Epsom Downs.

Britain's annual attack of Derby fever is at its height. The nineteen Derby entries are at Epsom tonight, petted and provided for as babies rarely are. Diolite, the firm favorite at the short odds of 5 to 2, slumbers in his luxurious box with The Scout II, from America, not far away. The William Woodward colt and Ballyferris from Ireland are the only foreigners in the running and they're hardly running, according to most dopesters.

Diolite, which will sport the silks of Sir Hugo Hirst, has already won the 1930 Derby to hear most tipsters tell it and should the American or any other colt come in first, there'll be some tall alibing to do by those experts, who pretend to know which horse can run the fastest.

Runners Heavily Guarded.

The Bank of England and the Derby runners are about the only institutions in this country protected by guards with guns. Anybody prowling around the Derby runners' boxes tonight would stand no more chance than a gangster after rival gangsters' beer.

Everybody seems to be asking for a Derby tip, giving one or trying to find out whether they've drawn a horse in one of the big sweepstakes, which, according to popular legends, make rich men out of chimney sweeps. Newspapers are full of Derby dope. Theaters will broadcast the race as a part of their matinee programs, while passengers on trains to Scotland and in air liners over the channel will listen in on the classic.

King to Attend Despite Rheumatism.

London dawn will see long lines of transport of every conceivable description moving south toward Epsom. Despite rheumatism, King George plans to take Queen Mary for a day's outing with a million of his subjects. Nobody knows whether there's a million but that is the usual estimate.

With Diolite picked as a certain winner, the only uncertainty is whether it will rain. The weather man says he thinks there will be showers.

Rustom Pasha, one of the two entries of that colorful potentate, the Aga Khan, is the second choice at odds of 7 to 1. The Scot II stands at 25 to 1, along with Iliad.

English Derby on Air This Morning at 8:45

The English Derby at Epsom Downs, England, today will be broadcast over WABC and the Columbia Broadcasting System, starting at 8:45 and continuing until 9:15 a. m., Eastern standard time. Lord Derby will broadcast introductory remarks and R. C. Lyle, sports editor of the London Times, will describe the race, which for the first time is to be broadcast to the United States and Canada.

TOURNEY AT "PONY" LINKS.

A weekly tournament is in progress at the "Pony" miniature golf course, Colorado avenue and Longfellow street northwest. A prize will be awarded daily to the person making the low score. The tourney will also be a means of determining the players who will compete for the "Pony" Golf Club in a team match with the "Peter Pan" golfers.

SEEK DISTRICT FOES.

The Fredericksburg Old Homer Junior Nine is seeking games with District teams to be played on week days. The Fredericksburg Tiger Insects are also seeking games with Washington teams. The Old Homers want games to be played at Fredericksburg. The Tigers will schedule games here and at home. Write Manager Lucien F. Jones, 700 Hanover street, Fredericksburg, Va.

SEEKING NINTH STRAIGHT.

Seeking its ninth straight victory of the season in as many starts, the Lindbergh Juniors, of Mount Rainier, will take the field against the St. Paul Juniors, of Brookland, next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. on the Lindbergh Field. The Lindy's have already defeated the St. Pauls once this year.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Jackson Park Handicap at 6 furlongs is the best race on the Washington Park, Chicago, program. NUSSAKAN, which has been shipped West from New York, is one of the star sprinters of the East, and came back at Jamaica with the same good form this year that he had last. He is weighted with 123 pounds in this race. He carried higher impost than that and beat some of the best sprinters and the chances are that he will win this race.

BROWN WISDOM, the top weight, is a fast horse, and will no doubt be one of the contenders. He has been picked for second. SILVERDALE has been running in best form, winning right along, and should make it close, with only 111 pounds to carry. NUSSAKAN has been beating horses like Ramoneur, Polydor and Scimitar. He may be at good odds at Chicago. This is a fast field in which he is making his Western debut, but he has great early speed and will be hard to catch.

FIRST RACE—HOT SHOT is selected to beat ZIDA, and is conceding 17 pounds to the filly. HOT SHOT has others to fear than ZIDA, with PATRICIA ANN, EQUATION, NORA D. and others. He has shown irregular form, but in this kind of field probably will show the way.

SECOND RACE—A good field of 2-year-olds starts in the second race, with MARY COB picked to beat UPRIGHT, the probable favorite. The filly has been improving and turned in some good races at Churchill Downs. UPRIGHT was also a Kentucky winner. VOLTABUSH may take down third money.

THIRD RACE—MAKE HASTE seems best of the 3-year-olds in the third race. ROLLING SEA, a greatly improved horse this spring, is the one to beat. HARAMZADA will be well backed, and has a chance. MAKE HASTE has a good turn of speed and if ready will lead the others home.

FOURTH RACE—OVER SHADY appears to stand out in the Peony Purse, for 2-year-old fillies, not only on her form in Maryland, but in Canada. She races for the Nevada Stock Farm and ran with the best at the Maryland tracks. The Rancocas Stable has a pair in the race which may be heard from—GLIDELIA and ZAILA—and GLIDELIA, a Jamaica winner, is picked for place. ISSAQUENA should hold the others safe, but the field is a large one. The Greentree Stable has REVERBERATE in the race, which won in the South.

SIXTH RACE—CANAAN should win this allowance affair, at a mile and 70 yards. This is the easiest spot this plater has been tossed in recently. MARTIE FLYNN is the contender. PLUCKY PLAY is the next best horse in the small field.

SEVENTH RACE—AVATOR seems a shade better than BRUNO. He will like the distance of a mile and a furlong. BRUNO is strictly the contender. COTTAGE BOY has not been heard from in some time. Probably he will land third.

Whichone, favorite for the $80,000 Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park Saturday, will have a public work-out today between races at the New York track.

The stock of William Woodward's Gallant Fox, winner of the Preakness stakes and Kentucky Derby, to win the historic Belmont stakes, took an upward bound yesterday when news of a sensational trial of a mile and an eighth in 1:50 was announced by the Belair stud. Gallant Fox made his latest trial over the Belmont Park course. Trainer James Fitzsimmons brought his star 3-year-old to the course of the Westchester Racing Association for his final hard workouts before starting in Saturday's classic. Earle Sande, who will be astride of Gallant Fox in the Belmont, was up on the son of Sir Gallahad III—Marguerite in his spectacular workout.

GALLANT FOX SUPPORTERS REJOICE

Colt, With Sande Up, Runs 1 1-8 Miles in 1:50 Sensationally.

BELMONT RACE TRACK, N. Y., June 3 (A.P.).—The stock of William Woodward's Gallant Fox, winner of the Wood Memorial, Preakness Stakes and Kentucky Derby, to win the historic Belmont Stakes, oldest nad richest of American 3-year-old classics, took an upward bound today when news of a sensational trial of a mile and one-eighth in 1:50 this morning was announced by the Belair Stud.

Trainer James (Sunny Jim) Fitzsimmons brought his star 3-year-old to the beautiful course of the Westchester Racing Association for his final hard workout before starting in the famous American 3-year-old championship stakes on Saturday. Earl Sande, who will be astride of Gallant Fox in the Belmont, was up on the son of Sir Galahad III—Marguerite in his spectacular workout. Prisius was used as a trial horse. The latter broke at the half-mile pole and went along with Gallant Fox as far as he could. However, the famous 3-year-old was sighting for his head in such a persistent manner that Sande was forced to allow him to step along at high speed. Gallant Fox pulled up in most satisfactory condition and was not the slightest distressed by his phenomenal workout.

The fractions of the mile and one-eighth were 0:12, 0:23 2-5, 0:35 1-5, 0:59 2-5, 1:12 1-5, 1:24 2-5 1:36 3-5 and 1:50.

Horsemen who witnessed the trial do not see how any thoroughbred can improve upon it. Gallant Fox won many a supporter by his clever performance. This is the last fast trial for teh Belair Stud star before he goes to the post in the "race of the century" on Saturday.

TREASURY TEAM WINS DEPARTMENTAL GOLF TITLE

War Workers Gain Second Place

Individual Title Won by Thomas Belshe With 154 Score.

200 in Competition at Indian Spring for Mellon Cup.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE shades of night were falling fast over the course of the Indian Spring Club last night when the last of the players who competed in the Interdepartmental Golf League annual tournament turned in their cards to Ralph A. Shepard, the secretary of the organization, who had been figuring all day like an income tax expert.

More than 200 governmental employes participated in the event, the principal competition being between four-men teams for the trophy donated by Secretary Mellon, of the Treasury Department.

This handsome cup was awarded to a quartet from the Treasury Department consisting of E. B. Wagner, J. J. Lynch, W. B. Vogel and J. Phelan, whose total scores for 36 holes aggregated 661, 7 strokes better than the total of the team representing the War Department. The Interstate Commerce team, with 673, came in third.

Agriculture Wins In Class B.

There were also trophies for teams in classes B and C, and these were won by representatives of the Department of Agriculture. The personnel of thee Class B team consisted of T. F. Walsh, F. Graf, E. T. Larsen and R. M. Roundabush, while in class C team the players were William Middleton, J. W. Etheridge, W. H. Young and Oscar Steanson.

Although Maj. E. L. Naiden, former Army champion, and many other well-known golfers, competed yesterday, nobody lowered the gross score of 76—78—154 made last Monday, the first day of the tournament, by Thomas W. Belshe, of the War Department, while M. A. Shipley, of the State Department, held his position as runner-up with 82—77—159. J. J. Lynch, Treasury, was third low gross with 161.

Standards Players Have Best Low Net.

In the low net standing of the teams in Class A the four players from the Bureau of Standards easily spreadeagled the field, ending with a net 574 as against 583 for the Inter-State Commerce Team, their nearest competitors.

Some of the teams were handicapped by the fact that one or more of their players did not complete the two rounds, notably in the case of the Patent Office, where the foursome was reduced to a threesome by reason of the illness of one of the competitors. At the conclusion of the tournament the prizes were awarded at a dinner held in the clubhouse.

LEGION NINES PAIRED FOR OPENERS

Jasper Post to Meet George Washington in Debut Sunday.

PREPARATION for the opening of the third annual District American Legion baseball championship series on Sunday were completed last night when the draw was made for the initial engagements and the complete schedule for the series drafted.

Inaugural hostilities will be between the George Washington and Sergt. Jasper, Spengler and Lincoln, and Nash and Victory Nines. The contenders were paired in that manner by the draw last night in the sports department of The Washington Post.

The vagaries of the draw caused the pairing of the George Washington and Sergt. Jasper Nines. George Washington won the championship last year, but Coach Tom Suter and practically the entire championship team are now representing Sergt. Jasper Post. L. M. Lawrence and his King's Palace Midgets are looking after George Washington Post's interests this year.

Lincoln, Victory, George Washington and Sergt. Jasper Nines made changes in their original eligibility lists last night. All contracts will be open to the inspection of team managers and coaches on Thursday night in the sports department of The Post, Wessal Stewart, District athletic officer, announced last night.

Wife Divorces Lumpkin, Georgia Tech Grid Hero

Portsmouth, Ohio, June 3 (A.P.).—A decree divorcing Roy (Father) Lumpkin, former Georgia Tech football star, from his bride of six months, Mrs. Edith Dopps Lumpkin, was on record here today.

Mrs. Lumpkin obtained the divorce and restoration of her maiden name yesterday on grounds of gross neglect and cruelty. The former Georgia Tech star, who since college days has played professional football with the Portsmouth Spartans, is now in Texas.

Youth Not Entitled to Letter Named Tech Track Captain

A YOUTH who failed to earn his varsity letter was appointed captain of the Tech High School track team by Athletic Director Elmer (Hap) Hardell last night.

Everett Jones, the new leader, failed to score a point in the annual interhigh meet two weeks ago and after the custom at Tech is not entitled to his varsity monogram. But despite the faculty ruling that an athlete must score at least three points in the annual meet, Coach Hardell declared that he would recommend that Jones be presented a letter in view of unusual circumstances of the case.

Jones, a hurdler, who was with the squad throughout the season, gained second place for Tech in the Maryland scholastics and the "C" Club meet hurdles but suffered an injury to his back. He sustained a recurrence of the injury in his heat in the annual interhigh games and was unable to compete in the finals,

SHARKEY FOUND QUITE HUMAN AND QUITE A BOXER

Sailor Wants To Be Good Fellow

Reporter Could Name 50 Ball Players Less Modest.

Beautifully-Muscled Body Boasted by American Hope.

By DICK WILLIAMS.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 3 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—We have just come to the conclusion of a most uneventful day in the life of Joseph Paul Zuckowsky, known to the American public as Jack Sharkey, box fighter, upholder of the American dignity in the ring and one time a member of the enlisted personnel of the United States Navy.

Today Mr. Sharkey went out on the road for a few miles, jogging along easily or walking briskly. After that he came back to Gus Wilson's tin-ear asylum here and just lolled about a bit, talking with the boys and keeping as far from the matter of boxing as possible. That he didn't even take the trouble to say what he would do to Herr Schmeling gives one an idea of what an uneventful day it really was in the career of the loquacious Slav.

Just a Word for Sharkey.

While your correspondent is not to hold any brief for misunderstood prize fighters, believing as he does that their skulls are thick and capable of withstanding the most malicious assaults of the most gifted traducers, and that it is part of their business to stop maledictions as well as upholstered gloves, he would like to say a word for this young Lith.

He would like to make the Sharkey man out a real human being, which he seems to be, and quite a fighting man, and by and large an athlete. I could name fifty ball players who talk more and say infinitely less; a dozen other fighters who go the ball players ten points better. Nor does Mr. Sharkey speak in loud tones, or guffaw boisterously, after the manner of many other gentlemen who are supposed to be considerably farther advanced along civilization's towpath than Mr. Sharkey. He talks to a man directly and rather simply. He will talk about himself whenever you bring up that interesting subject, but he doesn't make it mandatory.

Likes to Talk About His Home.

You are much more likely to find him talking about his home in Chestnut Hill. He can't tell you much about it except that it's a fine place and paid for. He doesn't seem to know all about the architecture, but he knows he has a fine lawn and some of the most elegant flowers to be found anywhere in Boston's magnificent environs.

He can tell you how his kids enjoy it and how he prefers to do his own gardening and how Mrs. Sharkey doesn't run the business of the house, as she is credited with doing by those folk who like their summer fiction light. He is his own business agent and a sharp one and probably could, if given the opportunity, manage his own boxing problems as well or better than the obese, but reasonably canny, Manager John Buckley.

Mr. Sharkey has the unmistakable manner of a champion as he goes about his camp here. He may never be one, but there is nothing about his bearing to hold him back.

Body Beautiful Is Sharkey's.

Sharkey has a light step and a fine carriage. He has eager and acquisitive gray eyes, but they're confident eyes. He has one of the most beautifully muscled bodies any one ever took into the prize ring. His are the stringy, smooth muscles of the man with chain lightning reflexes. There is no binding about his supple body. His legs are strong and slim and his knees flow into the calves on a perfectly straight line, no bowing or knocking. His waist is trim and small, not like the wide, flat waist of Tunney.

Sharkey is in splendid condition today. There is no possibility of his fearing the German. He doesn't even take into consideration the responsibility of Herr Max clipping him for the count. If he does, he's one of the greatest actors in the world. Even Tunney, with his almost fanatical self-control and will power, couldn't assume an attitude of indifference to his opponent's power, such as Sharkey has here.

Looks With Pity on Sparring Mates.

Sharkey is a tremendously strong fellow. Tunney, too, was strong, but he wasn't as strong as Sharkey. Either of them is stronger than Dempsey, which seems paradoxical, since Dempsey had the most magnificent physique the ring ever saw. This Gob picks his sparring partners up and moves them about like cartons of cornflakes.

Sharkey is not a bad fellow with those human guinea pigs who serve as sparring partners. One even detects a gleam of pity in his eyes as he buffets poor old King Solomon, a shaky-legged Hebrew with graying hair, who just came into this fight racket eight years ago, about the ring.

One senses that this man has a heart that yearns for the affection of those about him; that he would give much of what he has made to feel the thrill of adoration that so often was Dempsey's, never Tunney's. In other words, from being a good fighter and almost a great one—for that he undoubtedly is—he would like to move along into the circle that harbors those few modern ringmen who are known as good fellows.

HUDSON RACE DRAWS 22 CREWS

Columbia, 1929 Winner, in Bad Lane at Poughkeepsie.

NEW YORK, June 3 (A.P.).—The record-breaking flotilla of 22 crews that battled the wind and waves of the Hudson in a rowing melodrama a year ago will be back in full force for the thirty-third annual intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie June 26.

Exactly equaling in number of entries the high mark set last year, a field of nine varsity, six junior varsity and seven freshman eights was announced today by Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, who supervised the drawing for positions.

Once more the Poughkeepsie Regatta will be a championship race of Nation-wide proportions with Washington and California carrying the banner of the War West, Wisconsin representing the Midwest and Columbia, Cornell, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Navy and Massachusetts Tech completing the field for the varsity 4-mile chase.

Columbia Again Draws Bad Lane.

Columbia, whose powerful crew of 1929 rowed to victory far out in the river in the very midst of the storm while four of its rivals foundered and sank, again draws a position near the center of the stream, No. 9. Washington, runner-up last year, drew No. 8.

Mr. Stevenson, who was out today for the first time after a month's serious illness, said every effort would be made to adhere to the starting schedule to avoid repetition of last year's incidents when the race finished in semidarkness.

Illinois U. Infielder Signed by Cardinals

Champaign, Ill., June 3 (A.P.).—James Lymperopoulous, captain and third baseman of the University of Illinois Baseball Team, today signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals and left at once to join the Greensboro, N. C. Club of the Piedmont League, one of the Cardinal farms.

Lymperopoulous was one of the fastest base runners in Big Ten baseball history. He stole 27 bases during the 1930 season, seven of them being steals of home. He batted .301 for the Illini and made only two errors in two years competition.

Chicago, June 3 (N.Y.N.W.S.).—An eighteen-hole golf course, 300 feet above the street level, is soon to be opened on the roof of the Stevens Hotel fo rthe benefit of guest players who wish to keep up their game. Chick Evans is scheduled to open the course Sunday afternoon with an exhibition match. The course will then be open for play every day from 9 a m until midnight.

Fight Fans Paid Garden $2,274,062 in 11 Mos.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Boxing fans poured a grand total of $2,274,062 into the coffers of Madison Square Garden in the last eleven months, making an average of $64,973.20 for each of the 35 big fight shows staged, the Garden Corporation announced today. This compares with an average of $48,681.23 for the 1928-29 season, according to the corporation's figures.

Miss Nuthall Missing In Wightman Line-Up

London, June 3 (A.P.).—The English Wightman Cup tennis team for the annual series against the Americans, at Wimbledon, June 13 and 14, was named today as follows: Miss Joan Fry, Mrs. L. A. Godfree, Miss Ermintrude Harvey, Mrs. Phoebe Watson, Miss K. E. Mudford and, as nonplaying captain, Mrs. T. M. Mavrogordato.

The absence of Miss Betty Nuthall from the personnel of the English Wightman Cup team comes as a disappointment to many followers of tennis.

Miss Nuthall, known as one of the best of the younger English players, has played on the Wightman Cup team for the last three years. Last season, at Forest Hills, she extended Helen Wills to the limit before she finally lost by scores of 8—6, 8—6.

Sarazen Again to Try For British Open Title

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen, former open and professional golf champion of the United States, will try again for the British open golf championship. The long hitting pro, who finished third in the United States open last year, two strokes out of a tie for first place, was runner-up to Walter Hagen in the 1928 British open, completing 72 holes of play with a score of 294 to 292 for the champion.

For some time he has wavered in a decision on a trip to Hoylake for the British open. Suddenly he made up his mind and was to sail tonight.

TILDEN WINS IN GERMANY.

Berlin, June 3 (A.P.).—Bill Tilden appeared before Berlin tennis fans at the opening of the Rotweiss Club's tournament today, defeating a German player, Anatole Tomilin, 6—1, 6—0, in the first round. In the men's doubles Tilden and Worm, of Denmark, defeated two Germans, Tuebben and Witkowski, 6—0, 6—0.

DUNN, OF G.U., MAY JOIN ALBANY

Shortstop Is Offered Post on Club Coach Is Playing For.

WITH Coach Richard "Red" Smith already playing, there is a likelihood that Georgetown University soon may have two representatives on the roster of the Albany Club, of the Eastern League. If Johnny Dunn, shortstop of the Hilltop Nine, accepts a chance offered him, he will follow Smith to the New York team.

Dunn has completed the regulation three-year varsity term in college baseball, although he has one more year to go in his studies. He is considered an exceptionally fine college shortstop, having only one possible weakness, according to experts—his throwing.

Coach Smith joined Albany several days ago upon the completion of Georgetown's season. He is a catcher and has previously performed professionally. Last year he finished the season with the Boston Braves and before that saw service with the New York Giants, Montreal and Jersey City.

Year-Round Berth Sought by Smith.

It has been reported that Smith will not return to coach the Hilltop Baseball Team next spring unless he can obtain a year-round contract Smith, a Notre Dame product, is a from the Blue and Gray authorities capable football coach as well as a diamond mentor and would assist in the direction of the Georgetown gridiron forces if given the contract.

HADLEY HANDICAPPED BY TRYING TOO HARD

with Myer showing the way with a .300 mark, the result of six hits in twenty times up. Rice has hit five times in 21 chances for a .200 mark. Judge three times in twenty chances for .150, and Goslin two times in 19 trips to the plate for a snappy .108 average. In order to break up this succession of left-handed club swingers, Johnson today crowded Cronin into the line-up between Judge and Myer.

"Sad Sam" Jones announced to Skipper Johnson this morning that he was confident that he can beat both the Tigers and Indians and asked that he be allowed to work in both series. As managers are only too glad to accede to requests of this kind, the somber Sage of Woodsfield, Ohio, will toil here Thursday and against Peckinpaugh's Tribe in the final game of the Cleveland series.

Shortstop Mark Koenig and Pitcher Waite Hoyt, obtained by the Tigers in a trade with the Yankees, failed to report to Manager Bucky Harris in time to play today as ordered. The infielder was scheduled to have taken Rogell's place between second and third in this afternoon's game. He and Hoyt showed up just before the game ended.

ALEXANDER GIVEN RELEASE BY PHILS

run on base for the Yankees, Alexander was called to relieve Haines. He struck out Lazzeri and St. Louis won.

Numerous suspensions for failure to keep training dot his career and it is believed that this laxity was instrumental in the trade last year by which Alexander went back to the Phillies. This spring time took its toll from him and he failed to win for Baker.

He closed twenty years of major league service, during which he pitched almost 600 games, and it is no secret that for the last five of those years the strength had been missing from his arm and that "Old Pete" was out there pitching them up and still fooling the batters with nothing but his head and his heart.

SCHMELING'S BLOWS PUNISH PARTNERS

after two right-hand punches on the chin, he stumbled around the arena, doubled up, as though looking for something he had dropped on the canvas. This time they took Karl away for the day.

The last sacrifice was a giant Italian named Humberto Torriani. Max punished him so badly with his short slams to the head and body that Humberto, too, had to be relieved. The Italian lasted through one round and part of another but for the most of the time hadn't any idea of going on.

Schmeling will continue overhauling his mates tomorrow when another new crop is due.

Arthur Buelow, Schmeling's deposed manager, paid a surprise visit to the camp to see his German newspaper friends, but did not watch the workout.

and fell flat in time to prevent the two piling into each other.

Goslin gave the crowd a thrill when he fanned on three successive monster swings in the sixth.

Bluege made a great barehand stop of Rogell's drive in the sixth. While he had no chance to make the out, the stop prevented the batter from getting a double.

A lucky break enabled the Nats to hold the Tigers to but one run in the sixth. With two out and the bases loaded, Wyatt shot a mile-a-minute liner at Liska. The latter threw up his glove, deflected the ball, and Cronin gobbled it up to end the round by stepping on second for a force play.

Wyatt fanned Cronin and Myer starting the seventh, but Bluege's case was different. He crashed out his second double of the game, driving the ball high up against the scoreboard in left center.

Ending round 6, Gehringer sent Sammy West almost back to the flagpole for a long looper. In the next frame the Nat center fielder went almost to the same spot to fasten himself on McManus' drive, which went as an air sacrifice, as it allowed Gehringer to advance from second after the catch.

Judge stole second in the eighth session while Wyatt was holding the ball. When the Bengal pitcher finally woke up he pegged to second, but was not even close.

FORMER YALE STAR DIES.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Samuel Brinckerhoff Thorne, banker and old-time Yale football star, who as "Brink" Thorne gained All-America fame in 1895-96, died suddenly today in Harbor Hospital after being stricken during a business conference. He was 58.

dropping out in hundreds at every raise since then, until at present only 69 remain paid up and eligible, of which maybe a dozen will start.

To the total thus obtained the track adds $25,000 and the final total far exceeds that of the Preakness at Baltimore and the Kentucky Derby, respectively, although in each of these races the promoters contributed $50,000 themselves.

I do not wish to suggest that the Belmont Stakes will be a private race, unattended by customers, for the total count probably will come to something like the combined attendance at Pimlico and Churchill Downs. But if New York were to respond to the Belmont in the same degree that Kentucky and the Middle West respond to the Derby, the attendance would amount to several millions and life here would be out of joint for a long time. Those who wish to attend the running will pick up and go but there will be no relaxation of the laws and customs of the town in general and no noticeable increase in the helling around the night before or the night after.

Maybe they ought to hold it in Rochester. This place is so big and busy that a local earthquake would have to share page one with the Wall street prices and debutantes slain in love pact.

NATS BEAT DETROIT WITH 7-RUN RALLY

cer doubling and singling during the round, and seven tallied.

Bluege and Spencer opened up with doubles and remained on the sacks while Liska was fouling to McManus. Loepp walked, filling the bases, and Rice then singled two home. When Goslin walked, the aisles were packed again, one scoring on Judge's infield out. After Cronin singled two more home, Sullivan took up the mound burden and Myer singled Cronin to third, stealing second a moment later. When Bluege walked, the runways were crowded again, Spencer singling two more across the plate before Sullivan could get his bearings.

Liska Weakens in Sixth.

The affair then developed into a pitchers' battle, with neither team threatening until the home sixth. Between the first and this round Liska granted but one hit, while Wyatt, who had relieved Sullivan starting the third, had pitched hitless ball.

Liska was in real trouble in the sixth, however, and plainly showed signs of needing help. With one in the morgue, Alexander walked, took second on an out and registered on Johnson's one-baser to right. When Rogell singled and Hargrave walked, the bases were filled, putting it up to Wyatt. He tried, lining one which Liska luckily deflected straight into Cronin's hands and a force play resulted. But for this break, at least two runs would have scored.

Liska met his "Waterloo" in the next round. With one dead, Gehringer doubled, advanced on McManus' long sacrifice fly—another hard-hit ball—and scored on Alexander's single to left. When Fothergill doubled "Alex" home, Braxton came into action and relieved the situation.

Wyatt showed signs of weakening in the eighth and the Nats got one of these runs back. With one out, West doubled and Rice singled him home. Goslin then coaxed a pass, but the next two Nats could do nothing to help along the cause.

This was the last threat of the game.

GENERAL RULES FOR CLEANING.
(Department of Agriculture.)

The more important points brought out in this bulletin may be summarized as follows:

Keep dirt out of the house by cleaning walks, steps, porches and sills regularly and often, by screening windows and doors near the ground and insisting on having muddy shoes and coats cleaned or left outside.

Lessen the number of dust collecting places, such as unnecessary cupboards, grooved and carved woodwork, floors with cracks, rough finished walls, elaborately carved and upholstered furniture, superfluous draperies and bric-a-brac.

Remove dirt frequently and systematically. This keeps the house and furnishings in better condition and makes the need of heavy cleaning less frequent.

Clean by taking the dirt away not by scattering it, to settle again elsewhere.

Do heavy cleaning a little at a time to avoid hard work and discomforts of old-fashioned spring and fall housecleaning.

Have a supply of good cleaning tools such as your work calls for and keep them in good order and in a convenient place.

Use water and cleaning agents sparingly, because otherwise they may spoil finishes and weaken glue paste and cement.

Be on the lookout for troublesome insects and animals and take proper measures to get rid of them when they appear.

STEEL SHARES LEAD DECLINE IN STOCKS

Selling Wave Causes Many Isues in Outstanding Groups to Slump.

J. I. CASE PROVES FIRM

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Further reports of declining steel mill operations encouraged selling of stocks today and closing price in many leading issues were 1 to 3 points lower, with slightly larger losses in a few specialties.

Until the final hour was well under way trading bade fair to establish a new low record since August, 1928. Professionals, tired of endeavoring to make the tired market advance, switched to the short side around midday, but met with only fair success. It was reported that ingot production of U. S. Steel had been reduced nearly 5 per cent this week, bringing its level of operation to 75 per cent of rated capacity. The bearish movement was accelerated and the volume was swelled to a figure just above yesterday's.

News of the Steel Corporation's curtailment was not unexpected in view of the approach of summer dullness, but the size of the decrease may have been rather surprising. Steel's ability to hold around 80 per cent in the last several weeks had been regarded as a favorable portent offsetting to a degree the easiness of the independents' business. The current sharp drop in the volume of operations is attributed to a reduction in the volume of Illinois Steel, which is now down to 70 per cent against 90 per cent not long ago.

Steel Production Figures.

Dow, Jones & Co. estimated that the average for the industry was slightly under 71 per cent, against 73½ last week, with the independents showing a smaller loss than U. S. Steel.

The dullness of security markets since the decline early in May was emphasized by the decline of $315,299,447 in New York Stock Exchange member loans on collateral during May. The total at the end of the month was $4,747,831,912 and the reduction contrasted with a gain of about $407,000,000 in April. The record high mark of street loans is $8,549,383,979, established on September 30, 1929.

The money market showed further signs of easiness. For the first time in several years some brokers were offering 30-day time loans as low as 2¾ per cent. The tone of call funds improved as the June 1 payments moved back to the banks. The Federal Reserve Bank here reduced its buying rate for the shortest term bills by ½ to 2⅝ per cent, reflecting the large foreign demand for acceptances. Commercial borrowings from Federal Reserve members, as reported in the weekly statement, showed that the total is now the smallest in more than four years. Loans on securities have increased $175,000,000 in the last two weeks, suggesting an accumulation of new issues on dealers' shelves.

Steel Loses 2¾ Points.

Selling pressure in the stock market was directed most persistently against the steels, although representative industrials in other lines, as well as some of the utilities, also declined. U. S. Steel lost 2¾, Vanadium, Newton, Bethlehem and Crucible about a point each, and American Rolling Mill nearly 2. American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Montgomery Ward, Radio, Coca Cola, United Aircraft, Electric Power & Light, Standard Gas, Johns-Manville and American Tobacco B yielded 1 to 3 points., while Air Reduction, Columbian Carbon, Worthington Pump and a few others suffered larger losses. Continental Baking "A" and preferred, American Encaustic Tiling, Curtiss Wright A, American Locomotive preferred, and Pullman made new 1930 lows. Foster Wheeler, McKeesport Tin Plate and J. I. Case were moderately strong.

The continued weakness of bar silver, both here and in London, sent Chinese exchanges down to new lows. Leading European currencies, with the exception of sterling and the French franc, again eased.

Grains were firm. Wheat advanced ⅝ to 1 cent on unfavorable Canadian weather and a decrese in the world's visible supply. Corn improved fractionally. Cotton sold off in a quiet market. With net declines of 19 to 23 points in the new crop months, the tone of sugar was steadier and the close a shade higher.

COTTONSEED OIL MARKET.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—COTTONSEED OIL—Prime crude, 7.00; prime summer yellow: old, spot, 8.50; July closed 8.63, September 8.81, October 8.81, December 8.60; new: December 8.27, January 8.35, March 8.47.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Cotton was lower today under a comparatively small volume of offerings which were evidently encouraged by the favorable view of the weather news and reports of a continued poor demand for cotton goods. The selling was not aggressive, but demand was limited and prices worked gradually lower with the new October contract selling off to 14.43, or 19 points net lower and closing at that figure. The general market closed barely steady at a decline of 11 points on July, while new crop months showed net losses of 19 to 23 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 points on July which appeared to be influenced by some covering or trade buying while later months were generally 2 to 12 points lower in response to the favorable weather map. Unfavorable trade advices from Manchester and reports of a continued slow demand in the domestic markets with talk of continued mill curtailment seemed to increase the disposition to sell on the favorable average of crop advices. The dips brought out some buying which temporarily checked the decline around 15.95 for July and 14.50 for the new October contract, but the demand was supplied and the market reached the lowest prices of the day in the late trading. July closed at 15.90, the old October contract at 14.73, and the new December at 14.51.

Except for light showers at three or four stations in Texas detailed weather reports showed no rainfall with generally clear weather in the South. Expectations of a favorable weekly review from the Weather Bureau tomorrow as well as the favorable view of immediate weather conditions, were considered a contributing factor on the decline. According to the weekly trade report of the New York Cotton Exchange service the mill situation abroad showed no improvement during the week with the demand for yarn and cloth in England slow and sales estimated at only about 60 per cent of current restricted production. Liverpool cables said that liquidation and bombay selling had been absorbed by trade calling at the decline in the market there, and reported a moderate inquiry for cotton cloth from Egypt and the Near East.

Port receipts today, 15,769; U. S. port stocks, 1,736,156; exports today, 20,055, making 6,487,608 so far this season.

FOREIGN BONDS RISE FEATURES TRADING

Group Continues to Climb; Market's General Tone Proves to Be Dull.

MONEY RATES DECLINE

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Today's bond trading was, in a large measure, a repetition of yesterday's. The improved demand for issues in the foreign list, particularly among the less active, continued and raised price levels, but the general tone of the market was dull.

Easing of time money rate lent some strength to the best grade issues in the railroad, utility and industrial groups as shown by the averages, but their example was not emulated, and numerous bonds lost ground.

For the first time in many years the 30-day time money rate broke below 3 per cent, the rate for call money, and was quoted at 2¾ per cent bid, and 3 per cent asked. Banks were said to be anticipating a possible plethora of money around June 15, the date of the new Treasury financing. It was the oversupply of funds around March 15 that gave the bond market its best rally of the year.

The day's gains raised many foreign obligations close to 1930 high levels and some broke into new high ground.

The Belgium 6½s of '49 rose 1¾ points to establish a new 1930 high, and its performance was duplicated by Finland 6s. Scandinavian and German issues were the most active and advances of ½ to 1 point were common. Electric Power, German 6½s, Greek 6s, Norway Municipal 6s, Frankfort 6½s, Berlin Electric 6½s, and Colon Bank 6½s were especially strong. Uruguay 6s lost 2¼ to touch a new year's low.

The dullness of the stock market put a damper on trading in stock privilege issues and most of them ended the day somewhat lower. United States Governments suffered from reduced activity and sales were confined largely to Liberty issues. Liberty fourth, 4¼s registered, made a new 1930 high at 107.7.

A Baltimore and New York syndicate has purchased $2,245,000 issue of 4½ per cent bonds of the State of Maryland at 102.82 and will offer them shortly.

288 LEAVE TONIGHT FOR BANK SESSIONS

Two Special Trains Will Carry District Group to Asheville.

PERLEY NAMES EDITORS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Two hundred and eighty-eight members and guests of the District of Columbia Bankers Association will leave tonight at 6 o'clock on two special trains for the annual convention of the association opening tomorrow at Grove Park Inn, Asheville, N. C.

President Claude H. Woodward, of the Mount Vernon Savings Bank, chairman of the transportation committee, announced yesterday that tickets, baggage checks and hotel reservation cards had been distributed to all who had made reservations to attend.

Frank M. Perley, American Security & Trust Co., newly elected president of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, yesterday made his first appointments, those of the editorial staff of the year book of "Dollars and Sense," quarterly publication of the chapter.

They are the following: Editor in chief, Raymond D. Lewis, American Security & Trust Co.; associate editors, Willard Barker, Morris Plan Bank; Miss Mabel V. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; William G. Winstead, National Metropolitan Bank; J. Fred English, Commercial National Bank; business manager, Robert E. Lee, Lincoln National Bank; assistant business managers, Georges Dagenais, Riggs National Bank, and Earle G. McGeary, W. B. Hibbs & Co.; circulation manager, G. Harry Morris, Riggs National Bank.

Period of Growth Noted.

The greatest peace-time growth in the history of the United States Postal Savings System took place between July 1, 1929, and February 28, 1930, according to an announcement made yesterday by Postmaster General Brown.

Despite the legal limitation which restricts the amount which any one individual may deposit in postal savings banks to $2,500, during the period mentioned above the total deposits increased more than 10 per cent, or $16,341,000, making the total deposits at the later date $167,901,652.

Perot, Adair & Co., private bankers, and Southern Corporation, a $5,000,000 financial corporation, have moved their offices from the Securities Building into new quarters on the second floor corner of the Shoreham Building.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—Ominous crop conditions both north and south of the Canadian boundary, together with shrinkage of the world's wheat available supply lifted wheat values late today.

High winds and dust storms were reported as again damaging spring wheat over wide areas, and the crop condition in Saskatchewan was figured as having been reduced 5 per cent within the last week. World stocks of wheat were announced as down to but little more than 3,000,000 bushels over the total at this time last year.

In contrast with early declines today, wheat closed firm at virtually the top level, 1 to 1 cent up, bushel for bushel yesterday's finish. Corn closed, ¼ to ¾ cent advanced. Oats, ½ to ¾ cent up, and provisions varying from 35 cents setback to a rise of 30 cents.

At first the wheat market was largely dominated by monthly unofficial estimates, indicating that the 1930 United States winter crop will be larger than was forecast a month ago. Today's June crop summaries by private crop authorities put the probable total domestic winter wheat this season at 544,000,000 bushels, compared with 543,000,000 bushels, the average unofficial estimate a month ago, and with Government May estimate 525,000,000 bushels. The new monthly reports, however, pointed out that conditions in spring wheat territory are precarious as to subsoil moisture, and that more than usual rainfalls are necessary for the spring crop from now on until harvest.

Underlying a belief in about renewal of dust storms came streaming in later from Canadian wheat territory, and similar reports were at hand also as to North Dakota and northwest Minnesota. These reports soon proved effective in turning the wheat market upward, and more than offset June monthly unofficial forecasts of a domestic spring wheat crop of 237,000,000 bushels this season, compared with 252,000,000 bushels indicated a year ago. Meanwhile, too, numerous messages from the Southwest and portions of the West today gave stress to talk of prospective light yields of winter wheat on account of thin stands as well as short heads. In this connection predictions were current that threshing returns later on will show lower yields than are at present looked for as a rule.

Corn displayed independent strength from the outset, and oats followed suit. Traders in corn were inclined to be anxious about reports that several rains are needed all over the corn belt.

Most deliveries of provisions advanced, owing to cash interests buying July lard.

Cantaloupes Drop; Berry Prices Firm

Watermelons, Later Than Those of Last Year, Prove High.

Produce markets the first week of June were rather unsettled as to trend of potato prices, according to the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Tomatoes and cantaloupes sold lower. Onion markets held about steady, but berry prices were well maintained. Shipping point prices of California lettuce were somewhat higher and celery markets held firm. One of the features of the fruit and vegetable markets was the continued downward trend of cabbage prices.

The watermelon season is later than last year, but movement is becoming fairly heavy from Florida. Opening prices of melons are high. The peach movement increased the last week of May, with several cars each from Georgia and California and one from North Carolina. Apple shipments were down to about 50 cars daily, most of the supplies coming from Washington, New York and Virginia.

Daily average of strawberry shipments was down to around 110 cars by the first week of June. This output was less than one-third as heavy as at the same time a year ago. Movement from Delaware and Maryland was incresing and the season had opened in New Jersey. Maryland was leading in volume of shipments in early June with Missouri ranking second. The shipping season for string beans was about to open in Virginia in early June. Daily shipments from all sources had increased to about 100 cars.

Curb Review

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Curb stocks generally drifted lower today, in sympathy with the decline on the stock exchange. Trading still held at the slow pace of 600,000 shares a day, and losses were largely limited to a point or two.

Electric Bond & Share was apparently uninfluenced by its annual report, published this morning, and sagged more than 2 points. American Gas broke 4 points. Issues losing a point or so included Associated Gas A, American Light & Traction, Hydro Electric Securities, and United Light A. United Gas new stock lost about a point, as the United Gas merger was declared operative.

A few specialties which were strong yesterday again sold up moderately to new high ground for the year, including Detroit Aircraft, Cuneo Press, and Todd Shipyards. The last named has been favorably influenced by increasing activity in ship building this year. Wayne Pump also reached new high ground. Ex Cello Aircraft and Atlantic Coast Fisheries were among issues sagging a point or two to new 1930 lows. Ford or Canada B, a strong feature yesterday, slipped back 2 points. A. O. Smith, a high-priced issue, rose more than 8 points, reflecting reports of large orders for iron pipe.

Oils were mostly dull and irregular. Vacuum lost 2 points in rather active selling, but General Petroleum gained 2 in a small turnover. Creole, a low priced issue controlled by Standard of New Jersey, moved up to a new high for the year at 7⅝, reflecting development of Venezuelan properties.

In the investment trusts, Goldman Sachs sagged a point to within a fraction of the year's low, while All-American General gained nearly 2 points.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

In making inquiries address Charles W. Storm, financial department of The Washington Post, and inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Paramount Publix and Others.

A. C. R.—I would like your opinion on the following stocks as fairly safe investments: Paramount Publix, General Foods, Commercial Solvents, Continental Can, National Dairy Products, General Refractories, Hershey Chocolate.

Answer—While this entire group of stocks is speculative in greater or lesser degree, with their earnings and dividends likely to fluctuate with conditions in their respective industries, as well as with changes in general business conditions, they are all regarded as "fairly safe" speculative investments.

Preference might be expressed for Hershey Chocolate, paying $5 annually in dividends and returning on the investment at present prices approximately 4.6 per cent; Paramount Publix, paying 4 per cent and yielding 5.7 per cent, and General Foods, paying 3 per cent and returning 5.1 per cent.

Air Investors.

S. G. P.—I would appreciate very much any information you could give me in regard to Air Investors. Understand that at its present price it is much below its book value. Have some Continental Baking "B" that I want to switch to Air Investors. How do the two compare?

Answer—Neither stock is worthy of consideration from an investment viewpoint, as neither is on a dividend-paying basis. Both are highly speculative. It is true that the book value of Air Investors common stock is figured at $11.10 per share, whereas it is now quoted in the market at around $6 a share.

Eisler Electric.

C. L. B.—Will you kindly forward me your analysis of Eisler Electric and also your opinion regarding the drop the stock has taken lately?

Answer.—Eisler Electric Corporation reported for year ended December 31, 1929, net income of $1,046,231, equal to $5.23 a share, compared with $200,498, or $1 a share in 1928. Dividends of $1.50 a share annually are being paid. Considering large excess in earnings over dividend requirements, stock looks fairly attractive. No apparent reason for recent decline in stock.

Foreign Bonds.

E. D. S.—I have been a subscriber to The Post for more than 30 years and am taking the liberty of asking your opinion of the following bonds as investments: Australian Government 7s of 1943, Brazil 8s of 1941, Bulgaria 7½s of 1968, Bolivia 8s of 1947, Italian 7s of 1960, Poland 8s of 1960, Peru 6s of 1960?

Answer—While all of these bonds carry a higher rate of interest than those of the United States Government and while they are figured to yield, both at present prices and to maturity, a substantially greater income than the several issues of this Nation, they are by no manner of means anything near so safe, and it is therefore exceedingly difficult to understand why any one should be desirous of investing in bonds of foreign governments in preference to those of the United States of America. There are bonds, even of municipalities, railroads and industrial enterprises in this country that this column would much rather recommend than any of the issues above named.

Virginia, Radio Keith Orpheum.

H. H. R.—I would appreciate very much your opinion as to the prospects for Virginia Carolina Chemical and Radio Keith Orpheum. Or perhaps you could suggest some other stock which you would consider a safe and sound investment.

Answer—Earnings on Radio Keith Orpheum stock this year are expected to be in the neighborhood of $4 a share. Recent unofficial reports have been that management plans to make it biggest amusement organization in United States. This gives stock attractive speculative possibilities, although it can not be classified as an investment, as no dividends are paid on it at present. Virginia Carolina Chemical is a highly speculative issue, with no dividends or prospects thereof. Suggest buying General Motors, paying $3.30 yearly.

Best & Co.

N. S. A.—I bought Best & Co. stock recently. What is your opinion of it?

Answer—Profits for 1929 equaled $4.20 a share on the common after preferred dividend requirements. This represented an increase of 27½ per cent over the preceding year, adjusted to the 2-for-1 split-up of stock. Sales for 1929 increased 9 per cent. The balance sheet shows the company strong financially. An expansion program was put into effect last year with the result that additional stores will be operated. The common stock, which pays $2 a share, may be classed as a speculative investment.

Kreuger & Toll.

O. B. D.—Can you give me some information regarding Kreuger & Toll?

Answer—Kreuger & Toll certificates, representing participating debentures, carry a dividend of $1.34 annually, and it has been proposed officially to raise the dividend to $1.60 per American certificate. Dividends are paid only once a year, usually on July 1, and the higher dividend may be paid then. Earnings last year equaled $3.87 per American certificate, which appears to have some merit.

Crocker Wheeler.

M. B.—My attention has been directed to Crocker Wheeler. Will you please inform me regarding this company?

Answer — The company manufactures electrical equipment, and for 1929 earned $1.75 on the 10-for-1 split-up shares, as compared with 36 cents a share in 1928. The stock was split in October and the preferred retired in November. Sales last year showed a substantial increase because of improved manufacturing facilities. Synchronized motor and speed changes are now in mass production and are expected to contribute materially to future earnings. Nothing is paid on the present stock, thus placing it in the category of a speculation, although future possibilities are good.

Directors of the Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation, one of the largest stock holding and trading corporations in the country, announced today that the quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent in stock will be passed. Mr. Sachs has succeeded Wadill Catchings, recently resigned, as president. Mr. Sachs stated, however, that the present asset value per share is substantially above the $40.94 per share shown by the December 31 balance shee. The stock sold off $1 to $30.75 a share on the curb exchange today. The low price of the year is $30.50.

According to a statement given out last night by Robert I. Mount, resident engineer of the State Highway Department, the reports which are being circulated to the effect that there is a disagreement between the State Highway Department and the oil companies having stations fronting the State roads is absolutely without foundation.

"Wherever it has been found that the oil companies have installed their tanks too close to the right of way they have moved them immediately when asked to; in fact, there is absolute cooperation existing between the state department and the oil companies," said Engineer Mount.

The county board of supervisors will hold a special meeting at 10 o'clock today at the courthouse at which they will discuss plans for the proposed bond issue and also determine the question regarding the taking over of the several private and community sewerage companies and whether there will be a front foot assessment of $1.50 levied against property owners where lateral lines have been laid.

Group One of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold a luncheon meeting today at the home of Mrs. William P. Ames at 1 o'clock.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club. President Dr. R. N. Sutton will preside.

The ladies' auxiliary to the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department will hold its annual election of officers Wednesday night, June 11, in the new firehouse at 8 o'clock.

With the view of giving to the citizens of Veitch Summit, Mulhall and Bon Air first-hand information on the proposed school and sewer bond issue on which the citizens of the county will vote on Monday, a mass meeting under the auspices of the Veitch Summit Citizens Association will be held tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Stonewall Jackson Schoolhouse at 8 o'clock.

Among the speakers will be County Engineer C. L. Kinnier and Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer on sewers, and County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp on schools.

Crime Wave Held Rap at Education

Social Conditions Indict Teaching Methods, Says Henry Louis Smith.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 3.—The "appalling problem of a Nation-wide crime wave following a Nation-wide wave of American education" is the "most insistent moral problem of Christian America and also the most unanswerable indictment of our American system of education," Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president emeritus of Washington and Lee University, declared today in the semicentennial commencement address at Bridgewater College.

Honorary degrees of doctor of laws were conferred upon four distinguished alumni of Bridgewater College—Dr. William J. Magazine, Dr. John S. Flory, professor emeritus of Bridgewater College; Dr. Walter B. Yount, of Western Maryland College, and for eighteen years president of Bridgewater, and the Rev. Isaac S. Long, for seventeen years a Church of the Brethren missionary in India.

Thirty-six seniors were awarded degrees by President Paul H. Bowman, while ten others will receive their honors at the convocation exercises next September.

Dr. Bowman read congratulatory messages from 40 colleges and universities on Bridgewater's 50 years of service. He announced that the semicentennial celebration marks the halfway point in the half million dollar endowment campaign of the colleges. This campaign already has given two new buildings to the college, the Dr. Charles Knox Cole Memorial Auditorium and the Alumni Dining Hall, the dedication of which were features of the exercises concluding today.

Fairfax Attorney Will File as Democratic Candidate for Moore's Seat.

FIFTH TO JOIN CONTEST

Thomas Randolph Keith, prominent attorney of Fairfax, stated last night that he intends to file as a Democratic candidate for nomination as representative from the Eighth congressional district of Virginia. This is an answer to petitions that have been circulated during the past few days by citizens of the district. Many persons have already pledged their support to him if he would consider making the race.

In making his announcement last night Mr. Keith stated that he would take a decided stand on the prohibition question. "I believe that there should be a change in the national prohibition law," he declared, "and I will issue a formal statement within the next few days in regard to this question as well as other matters which I believe concern voters of this district very much."

Mr. Keith was born in Fauquier County, Va., on September 19, 1872. He graduated from the University of Virginia in 1894 and for the last 36 years has practiced law at the Fairfax County Court House. At present he is a member of the law firm of Barbour, Keith, McCandlish & Garnett, of Washington and Fairfax, and was at one time a law partner of Representative R. Walton Moore, present representative from the district.

Mr. Keith was a member of the State board of law examiners in 1910. He is first vice president of the Fairfax Bank, member of the board of visitors of the Virginia Military Institute and vestryman and senior warden of the Zion Episcopal Church at Fairfax. Last month he was appointed by Gov. John Garland Pollard as a member of the Potomac River Commission, to serve with Representative Moore and former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd. He was married in 1899 and has three daughters. He has always been active in the affairs of the county and the Democratic councils of his section of the State.

Mr. Keith's announcement makes five candidates in the race for the Democratic nomination. Selection is to be made by voters in the Democratic primary to be held on August 5, this year. Others that have previously announced are, Judge Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria; E. Dejarnette, of Orange; State Senator Frank Ball, of Clarendon, and Capt. Crandal Mackey, of Arlington County.

RECTOR TRACES LIFE OF JEFFERSON DAVIS

Morton Says President of Confederacy Was Much Misunderstood Man.

SPEAKS IN ALEXANDRIA

Only now, 41 years after his death, is Jefferson Davis coming into his own and receiving recognition for the type of man he really was, the Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, told members of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at a celebration of the birthday anniversary of the Confederate President at Lee Camp Hall in Alexandria, Va., last night.

The speaker declared that Davis always has been more or less misunderstood, being more military than statesman. He graduated from West Point and served seven years in the United States Army before resigning to enter politics.

Recalling how Davis had preferred to be a fighter, resigning from the Senate at the time of the secession to become a soldier, Dr. Morton pointed out how he had been instead chosen as President of the Confederacy for one year and then elected to the office for the term of six years.

Dr. Morton recalled in detail the "persecution" of Jefferson Davis after the termination of the war, and told how the Confederate chieftain had been imprisoned at Fort Monroe, handcuffed and under constant guard, and with a bright light "shining into his eyes night and day." He declared that the reason Davis never was brought to trial was "because great lawyers, both in the North and the South, realized that there were no charges upon which he could be indicted."

The speaker called attention also to frequent instances where great men, born within a small radius of each other, often are closely associated in later life. He pointed out in this connection that Davis and Robert E. Lee had attended West Point together, and that Davis and Abraham Lincoln were born within 7 miles of each other, with only one year's difference in their ages.

A musical program was presented by Mrs. Orlando Kirk and Benjamin Wheatley, with Mrs. Francis Drischler at the piano. Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, president of the Alexandria Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, presided at the meeting, and Mrs. Harry Kirk was program chairman.
